BOSTON LIE DETECTOR ARRESTED AS LIAR

WINS RIGHT TO PRESS SUIT IN LOVE CASE

MRS. FRANCES STUART MURPHY

Joseph A. Murphy has just had his divorce decree pronounced valid by the Supreme Court. His alienation suit for $100,000 against Edward E. Rose, which has been awaiting the decision, can now be pressed.

MURPHY'S DIVORCE UPHELD

Rice Loses Plea to Efface Himself as Corespondent in Love Suit

The divorce obtained by Joseph A. Murphy from Frances Stuart Murphy, in which Edward E. Rose, wealthy cotton waste dealer, was named as corespondent, is valid. The Supreme Court hade this finding today when it overruled the exceptions of Rose.

At the conclusion of the divorce trial counsel for Rose claimed no competent evidence had been offered to warrant a finding that Rose was guilty of improper relations with Mrs. Murphy. Judge Callahan overruled the motion and the Supreme Court today upheld his ruling.

A suit for $100,000 charging alienation of affections brought by Murphy against Rose is pending in the Suffolk Superior Court. It has been awaiting today's ruling.

In the Supreme Court decision, written by Judge Crosby, it is declared that the natural secrecy of improper relations such as charged makes it impossible to prove such an offense except by circumstantial evidence.

The Murphy divorce case occupied many days of the court's time. The divorce was offered to show that Rose had kissed and hugged Mrs. Murphy in the bedroom of her fiance's home while Murphy was at his place of business.

K. OF C. OFFERS TO GUARD CHURCHES

Montreal, March 6. (By International News Service.)—The Quebec Knights of Columbus today offered their services to the provincial government to protect church property. Many Catholic churches have been burned recently. The fires were attributed to the Ku Klux Klan, although officials of the organization in Atlanta, Ga., denied responsibility.

MINIATURE GEYSERS FLOOD BRONX HOMES

New York, March 6.—Four square miles of the Bronx today were transformed into a miniature Yellowstone Park when thirty geysers spouted water high into the air after a water main had burst. Torrents flowed into hundreds of cellars and many families living in basements were routed from their beds. In some instances there were three feet of water in bedrooms.

$9,531,925 Woolen Co. Profit

New York, March 6.—The annual report of the American Woolen Company for 1922, made public today, discloses a net profit of $9,331,925, less reserve for taxes and contingencies, as compared with $9,192,672.

Dividends of $5,600,000, divided equally between the common and preferred stock, were paid, and $4,227,324 was deducted for depreciation, making a balance of profit for the year of $654,601, as compared with the sum of $106,618 added to the surplus the year before.

FIRE SHOTS IN DRUG ARRESTS

Two Prisoners Trapped in the South End Are Expected to Bare Huge Narcotic Plot

With the arrest of two men after an exciting chase in which shots were fired, Federal agents believe they will be able to round up the wholesale drug ring which last week managed to smuggle into Boston thirty pounds of narcotics valued at $192,000.

The men arrested, and who have been several days under surveillance, are:

William Henry Middleton of No. 816 Columbus avenue, Roxbury, a negro.

George Beatty of Roxbury.

They were arraigned today before United States Commissioner Hayes and held for the Federal Grand Jury in $1,500 each.

Several times agents have succeeded in purchasing drugs from the two men, but in each instance up to yesterday they were adroit enough to escape arrest. Federal Narcotic Agents Henry L. O'Malley

DOROTHY GORDON WARNED OF LOVE PLOT

Jardine Declares Girl Didn't Want to Elope With His Nephew

New details of love affairs of Dorothy Gordon were revealed on the witness stand in Middlesex Probate Court today by her guardian, William F. Jardine.

He said Dorothy really did not wish to elope with his nephew, Ellis Jardine, but she had promised to do so and wished to fulfill her word as a matter of honor.

Jardine warned the girl his nephew "would simply get control of her money."

ALLEGED "FRAME-UP."

Another sensational point came when Jardine said that on the girl's twenty-first birthday she saw him and her uncle, John D. Gardiner, in the office of Jardine's counsel, Robert Nafon; that the girl was wrought up after the meeting and that later that day Gardiner telephoned Jardine, saying:

"It was a nice frame-up, wasn't it? She was well coached. Believe me, I'll make her spend some of her money before I get through or I'll give my story to the newspapers."

Jardine was testifying today the hearing on the petition of himself and Gardiner, both asking appointment as permanent guardian of the $400,000 heiress now confined in McLean Insane Asylum at Waverly.

Regarding Dorothy's love affairs, Jardine said that in 1919, when the girl was nineteen years old, she first told him many of her thoughts about love.

WAS FOND OF NEWELL.

She showed him a letter from Willard Newell, former Tech student, and told Jardine that she was very fond of Newell. She remarked that, if she ever married, Newell was the type of young man she would wed.

"I had a nephew, Ellis Jardine," continued the witness, "who was coming around there at that time. Dorothy appeared to be interested in him.

"In October of 1920 I learned Doro

AMERICAN COAL FOR GERMANY

Big Cargoes Ready to Sail Despite Acute Shortage Here

American coal to Germany as well as to Canada.

Jail sentences for Boston coal dealers who have been selling fireproof "washery" coal.

Army trucks for coal deliveries in New England.

A statement from City Fuel Administrator Morss that the coal emergency in Boston was over.

A denial that this is so, from one of the leading officials of the Metropolitan Coal Company.

And State Fuel Administrator James J. Phelan still in Bermuda.

That's the coal situation in Boston today. Shipment of American coal to Germany, said to be the result of the French seizure of the Ruhr mines, will begin from Hampton Roads in cargo lots this week.

41,623 TONS LAST WEEK.

Two vessels now loading at the Newport News Terminals will leave for German ports, and a third vessel is being chartered for the same purpose.

In announcing that the fuel shortage in Boston was over, Mr. Morss said 41,623 tons of hard coal were received in Boston last week, which is about twenty-five per cent more than any previous week this Winter.

"In another month," Mr. Morss declared, "the coal shortage will be a memory." In another month the Winter also will be a memory.

Another view of the situation was expressed by an official of the Metropolitan Coal Company, who said:

JUST AS SLOWLY.

"There's not a week's supply of coal in Boston today. It's coming in just as slowly by rail as it has been all Winter and shipments are not improving along the water routes, either. A schooner of coal, consigned to us, loaded January 13, arrived in Boston today. Nearly two months in transit. The only hope lies in the arrival of warmer weather."

While preparations are being

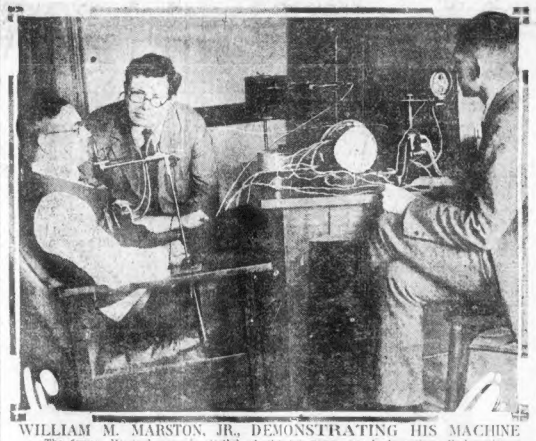
ACCUSED HARVARD INVENTOR AND HIS 'LIE' DETECTING DEVICE



WILLIAM M. MARSTON, JR., DEMONSTRATING HIS MACHINE

The former Harvard man who startled scientists two years ago by inventing a lie-detecting contrivance is now under arrest himself for telling alleged untruths. He is accused of concealing bankruptcy assets and falsifying financial statements. In photo above, Marston, the man in the centre, is shown demonstrating his invention.

YOUTH SHOT BY BOY TRYING TO SELL GUN

John Kinsella, eighteen years old, of No. 10 I street, South Boston, was shot in the hip today while an unidentified boy was trying to sell him an automatic gun.

The shooting took place in the "subway" of the Boston Theatre that runs from Washington to Mason street.

With Kinsella at the time was Alfred Salomme, of No. 71 Porter street, East Boston.

According to the boys they were walking through the passage when they met another boy about fourteen years old. The boy started a conversation and then showed them a pistol he waned to sell.

The gun exploded and Kinsella fell with a bullet in his hip.

BROOKLINE TAX COLLECTOR 39 YEARS DIES

George H. Worthley, town treasurer and tax collector of Brookline, died suddenly today as voters went to the polls prepared to cast their ballots for him for the thirty-ninth consecutive year. He had held his office since 1884.

A special town election will be required. Mr. Worthley was eighty-three years old, a resident of Brookline for fifty-three years, and the dean of all Brookline town officials in years and length of service. He was the oldest surviving member of the Boston English High School class of 1856. He lived at No. 12 St. Paul street.

He organized the Brookline National Bank, now the Brookline Trust Company, fifty-three years ago, and has been a director since then. For six years he engaged in sheep and cattle ranching in South America, and while there married Elina Lecarimey of Buenos Aires, who died two years ago.

Yesterday Mr. Worthley performed all his town duties and attended a bank directors' meeting.

HARVARD INVENTOR IN TOILS

William M. Marston, Jr., Accused of Using the Mails in Scheme to Defraud Public

Boston's "lie detector" is under arrest at Washington charged with doing the very thing he invented the Sphygmomanometer to prevent.

As a result of an investigation by the federal officers the Federal Grand Jury handed down a secret indictment three weeks ago charging him with aiding and abetting in concealing the assets of a corporation in bankruptcy proceedings and with using the mails in a scheme to defraud by sending out false financial statements.

William Moulton Marston, Jr., graduate of Harvard University in 1916 Harvard Law School, 1918, and Harvard Graduate School, in 1921 wanted to stop others lying, especially in the courts.

Months of research finally pro

Lewis, proprietor of the hotel; his wife and a guest from Maine, Mrs. Drake, were forced to flee in their night clothing. Mr. Lewis returned to the hotel after dressing and was injured by a fallen ceiling.

AMERICAN COAL GOING TO GERMANY DESPITE THE SHORTAGE HERE

THOUSANDS OF TONS STILL POURING INTO CANADA

made to ship pathetically to Germany, thousands of tons of American coal continue to go across the border to Canada. The railroads appear to function more or less efficiently in coal shipments to Canada.

But in New England, despite the optimistic statement of Mr. Morse, they have failed so flatly that beginning today forty-five army trucks started to carry fuel to coal less cities and towns in eastern Massachusetts.

The first trip was made today by a convoy of nine trucks, which took several tons of coal to dealers in Milford, who are practically without coal. The convoy was in charge of Captain William T. Kilbuck, Jr.

ONLY 5 PER CENT. COAL.

City Sealer Charles B. Wooley acting under instructions from Attorney General Jay R. Benton, will prefer charges of larceny, fraud and deceit against officers of the Kast Boston Coal Company and the Adams Coal Company of Somerville.

This action came as result of analysis by the State chemist of samples seized by deputies working from the office of Mr. Wooley.

Analysis of a twenty-five-pound bag sold by the East Boston Coal Company showed 95 per cent. loam and slate and 5 per cent. coal. The retail price of the 25-pound bag is 32 cents. This is at the rate of $25.60 a ton.

Analysis of a sample of coal sold in Boston by the Adams Coal Company of Somerville showed 78 per cent. loam and slate and 22 per cent. coal. What coal there was in this mixture tested far below grade and even labeled "non-combustible" by the chemist.

THE ONLY WAY.

Mayor Curley has ordered Wooley to "go the limit" in prosecuting the officers of corporation guilty of fraud in the sale of coal.

"These people are not only guilty of stealing money from the people, but have menaced the health of the community," said the Mayor. "I am convinced the only manner in which the seriousness of their offence can be brought home to them is to put them in jail."

Attorney General Benton's office, working in cooperation with the State Department of Standards, is conducting a State-wide campaign to stop coal frauds. Districts throughout the Commonwealth have been informed they would have the support of the Attorney General in sending dealers to jail.

"Three new companies are on the city list received," said Mr. Wooley today. "We have samples of coal sold by more than twenty-five dealers now being delivered and will bring the cases into court as soon as we receive the report of the State chemist."

SELLING WASHERY COAL.

Mayor Curley has instructed me to have no stone unturned and practically the entire force of this office, headed by Deputies Louis Hertgen, Joseph Martin, James A. Sweeney and William A. Day, is engaged in running down criminals who call themselves coal dealers.

Mr. Wooley has learned that coal known as "washery coal" is being sold by the mines and shipped to Boston and New England dealers. Normally, this is considered as mere refuse. The facts came to light in the arrest of Louis A. Zwick of the Tremont Coal Company, No. 1017 Tremont street, Zwick produced a bill showing he had purchased "washery coal" at $4.50 a ton, F. O. B. mines.

"The bill itself is enough to convict Zwick," said Mr. Wooley. "This so-called 'washery coal' is lowland but refuse washed from coal. Why it should be shipped to New England when there is a shortage of coal in which to heat good coal is more than I can understand."

Complaints on the quality of coal purchased in bag or small lots continue to flood the office of the city sealer. These include not only cases where the greater amount of the "coal" is bone and slate, but also cases where coal dust soaked with water is weighed out and sold at prices averaging $22 to $25 a ton.

New York.—Five boys ranging from five to twelve years, were killed within four hours in five automobile accidents.

Husband, 73 Years Married, Terms Hugging Foolish

New York, March 6.—Mr. and Mrs. John C. Demarest, of Spring Lake Farm, N. J., celebrated the seventy-third anniversary of their wedding. He is ninety five and she ninety-one.

Demarest was asked to place his arm around his wife to pose for a photograph. He answered:

"It's too much trouble to hug her. Hugging is all foolishness, anyway."

Mrs. Demarest does all her own washing. Demarest does chores around the house.

CRACKSMEN IN SOMERVILLE GET $1,184

Thieves forced an entrance to the Somerville Bag Wood Company's store at No. 26 Chestnut street, Somerville, today, and got away with the contents of the safe, including $1,184 in cash.

The company is conducted by Colpegian & Son. The store backs up against the Boston & Maine tracks from which entrance was made through a rear window.

Krickor Colpegian told the police he had locked the safe last night. There were no marks on the door and it is believed the burglars used the combination to open the vault.

Savannah—Seven minutes late in court, Judge Guy B. Parke fined himself $1 for each minute as his first official act in opening session.

PRAYING WOMAN PERISHES IN LYNN FIRE

Death by fire came to Mrs. Winifred Mack, an aged Lynn widow, as she sat alone in her home reading her prayer book. Her reading lamp exploded, setting fire to her cloth ing.

Michael Strakosky, the woman's landlord nearing the shrieks of pain, ran to Mrs. Mack's but was unable to save her. He was badly burned.

BANK BOOKS FOUND.

The aged widow, who lived alone, was thought to be poor but a roll of $50 in partly burned bills was picked up in the ambulance as it fell from her clothing enroute to the hospital and bank books in her name with deposits totaling $4,000 were found in her room.

Mrs. Mack occupied two rooms and a basement kitchen at No. 32 Elmfield street, Lynn. Her only known relative was Thomas Snell, of Linden street, Lynn.

READING PRAYER BOOK.

Mrs. Mack was reading her prayer book beside her stove in her basement kitchen when the lamp exploded. Flames shot to the clothing of the aged woman. In a moment she was enveloped in fire. Strakosky, attracted by her screams, failed to extinguish the fire and was unable to carry the woman to the street. Somebody notified the fire department and the firemen brought the woman outside. On the way to the hospital, physicians found she was dead.

BARES GORDON GIRL'S LOVES

thy planned to elope with Ellis. I learned from Dorothy that she did not wish to elope with him, but that she had promised to elope and wanted to carry out her promise as a matter of honor.

"I told her she should not consider it; that all it would amount to was that he would simply get control of her money.

"I suggested she write him a letter telling him that the friendship had ceased. She did.

Jardine related two talks he had with Dorothy regarding her uncle, John D. Gardiner.

"Dorothy told me: 'I can't understand why he (Gardiner) should come to the school and bother me. I don't know what he wants. I'm afraid of him.'"

Jardine was questioned as to his activities with the Gordon Supply Company, of which he is now president. He said Dorothy's mother, now dead, had asked him to become a director in the concern and her adviser. She was then president, in August, 1914, Mrs. Gordon made him a director. Six weeks later he was made vice-president. He was made president in March, 1916, after the death of Dorothy's mother.

GET $10,000 EACH.

Melville L. Hughes, company treasurer, and Clarence Hughes, the Jamaica Plain cousins of Dorothy, were getting $3,000 a year each as salary when Jardine became president. Since then they have been raised to $10,000 a year each by gradual increases from 1917 to 1922.

Then Jardine was quizzed as to his own salary. He said that, when he was made president in 1918, his salary was made $5,000. But he turned that back into Dorothy's estate, then charged the $5,000 up to him for his services as president of the corporation and guardian of the girl.

VALUE OF ESTATE GROWS.

How much that lump sum is he did not state. He was not asked.

Attorney Nason queried whether there had been any change in the amount of Dorothy's estate under Jardine's management since 1916.

"Yes, it has increased nearly 600 per cent."

But, in the next breath, Jardine explained that 300 per cent. of the 600 per cent. increase consisted of property left Dorothy by her mother but not originally listed in the estate when Jardine became guardian.

"Lying, Hysterical" Women Hit by Cosgrave

Dublin, March 6 (By the Associated Press).—President Cosgrave of the Free State Cabinet, has replied to a message from John F. Finerty, head of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, protesting against the government's action in suppressing the Republicans.

Mr. Cosgrave's reply says that the protest "is built on the garbled, lying propaganda of hysterical women."

It adds that no protest has been received against the methods used by the Republicans in their campaign, of which Mr. Cosgrave details examples.

SHOTS FIRED IN DRUG ARRESTS

And Louis J. Kelley made an appointment to meet the two alleged peddlers at Washington and Northampton streets.

They handed a marked $10 bill to Heatley, for which Middleton gave them a package of cocaine. As soon as the drug had been handed over and the money pocketed, the agents told the men they were under arrest. Middleton and Beatty promptly broke away and ran along Washington street, the agents after them. Several shots were fired before the two men were finally arrested.

A grilling of several hours revealed information upon which the narcotic officers expect to make many arrests, aimed at the heart of the drug ring operating in Boston.

duced the Sphygmonanometer, a device with a blood pressure attachment which disclosed by its recording whether a person was telling the truth, so he said.

MARSTON IS ACCLAIMED.

Scientists marvelled. Police officials hoped. Criminals feared. So, too, did erring husbands. Columns were written. Some believed.

Others didn't and through it all William Moulton Marston, "r., basked in publicity and was hailed as "the man who is going to stop lying."

Clergymen eulogized him publicly. He was held up by reformers as the ultimate in virtue. He was feted and dined by Harvard professors and thanked for the credit he had brought to his alma mater.

All this was back in 1920 and 1921.

TAKES FATHER'S JOB

While the son was in Cambridge—he lived at No. 17 Lowell street—giving exhibitions of his "lie detector," his father was rounding out a strenuous life by overtaxing his strength as treasurer of the United States Dress Goods Company, Inc., of Washington street, Boston. He went blind.

Then the son took over the father's duties. As the elder Marston enjoyed a reputation for business ability and the son had been publicly championed for his invention, the stockholders welcomed him in the treasurer's office.

Not so long ago the concern figured in the bankruptcy court. Certain creditors were suspicious because of the sudden meeting of assets, the discrepancies in statements sent by Marston and facts of but a few days before.

While the son was idling in Cambridge—giving exhibitions of his "lie detector," his father, who was treasurer of the United States Dress Goods Company, Inc., of Washington street, Boston, went blind.

The son took over the father's duties.

Recently the concern figured in the bankruptcy court. Certain creditors were suspicious because of the sudden meeting of assets and discrepancies in statements sent by Marston.

Federal agents investigated. They found Marston had suddenly disappeared from Cambridge without leaving any forwarding address for his mail. He did leave a trail of bad bills. The present occupant of the Lowell street house has been annoyed by a steady procession of from three to six collectors each week since the former owner sold and moved away.

Federal officers in Washington learned of a Professor Marston attached to the American University. They found he was the same man.

He will be brought here for trial. One of his first callers will be his ex-furnace tender. He wants to press a claim of $100 for services.

100 Per Cent. for Stand-ard Oil
One Prosperous Giant Was Saint Paul Epileptic?
A Gambler Dies
By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

CONGRESS, in its death agony, got much interested in the down-trodden people, as a dying man sometimes gets interested, rather late, in his children, soon to be fatherless.

"Standard Oil has the people at its mercy. Beware of gasoline at $1 a gallon" was the bitter cry.

There may or may not be truth in the sad Congressional Cassandra swan song. There is nothing in it to surprise the people.

OF STANDARD OIL people, just 100 per cent. work all the time FOR STANDARD OIL.

Among government people, some work for Standard Oil, some for railroads, some for coal interests, some for steel—you can count on a few fingers those that work efficiently for the nation that hires them.

If the people can get men to work for them as Rockefeller's men work for him, or as Judge Gary works for the big steel company, they will have less worry.

There is not the faintest doubt, however, that government shall fix a maximum price on gasoline, also coal, on a careful basis.

And the government should develop some of its oil lands, if it only sells to itself. In that way it could soon know what gasoline ought to cost.

IF YOU'RE A SUBSCRIBER or stockholder it will interest you to know that the giant telephone company, like some other monopoly giants, is doing well on a vastly increased capitalization. It earned more than 11 per cent. for 1922, and the next step will be to make it a BILLION-DOLLAR company. Once we were made dizzy by the words "a billion dollars." The war taught us that a billion is easy to borrow, lend or make, and particularly easy to steal by the right kind of patriot.

IF THE TELEPHONE company does well on a billion basis, its yearly income—11 per cent.—will be one hundred and ten millions, just one dollar per United States inhabitant.

How many big concerns collecting a dollar per head could the country support?

JACOB H. BRINKMAN asks, "What is the authority for your statement that Saint Paul had epilepsy?"

Doctors think they find a description of epileptic conditions in Paul's own writings, the thorn in the flesh, etc.

A better authority perhaps is the "Gloomy Dean" Inge, head of Saint Paul's Cathedral. Read his essay on Saint Paul. Or, if you want American authority, there is the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant.

He says it was "an epileptic experience that converted Saint Paul to Christianity." He ought to know.

Dean Inge believes Saint Paul was influenced by the stoning of Saint Stephen and the hideous thud of the stones hurled by the pursuing mob at the Saint's head.

IN ANY CASE, epilepsy is no disgrace. Some of the world's greatest men have had it —Napoleon, Caesar, and many others.

In the black middle ages they believed that the unfortunate epileptic had a devil inside of him and tried to drive out that devil with hideous cruelty.

M. E—— of Troyes. An attack of gout; the right ankle is inflamed and painful and he is unable to walk. The preliminary experiments show him to be a very sensitive subject. After the first treatment he is able to regain, without the help of his stick, the carriage which brought him, and the pain had ceased.

The next day he does not return as I had told him to do. Afterwards his wife comes alone and tells me that that morning her husband had got up, put on his shoes, and gone off on his bicycle to visit his yards (he is a painter). It is needless to tell you my utter astonishment. I was not able to follow up this case, as the patient never deigned to come and see me again, but some time afterward I heard that he had had no relapse.

Mme. T—— of Nancy. Neurasthenia, dyspepsia, gastralgia, enteritis, and pains in different parts of the body. She had treated herself for several years, with a negative result. I treated her by suggestion, and she makes auto-suggestions for herself every day. From the first day there is a noticeable improvement which continues without interruption. At the present moment this person has long been cured mentally and physically, and follows no regimen. She thinks that she still has perhaps a slight touch of enteritis, but she is not sure.

Mme. X——, a sister of Mme. T——. Acute neurasthenia; she stays in bed a fortnight every month, as it is totally impossible for her to move or work; she suffers from lack of appetite, depression and digestive disorders. She is cured by one visit, and the cure seems to be permanent, as she has had no relapse.

FIRE FORCE IN MALDEN SPLIT

Veteran's Suit Against Chief Divides Department Into Factions

Malden's fire department is split into two distinct factions. One is aligned behind Fireman William F. McCormac, whose $2,000 suit against Commissioner John H. Hannan, charging defamation of character, is being tried in East Cambridge Superior Court.

Others of the department are supporting the commissioner.

The first brush between the contestants in the litigation occurred in 1920, when Fireman McCormac was a leader in the fight for a two-platoon system.

TRANSFER ORDERED.

He charges that when his side of the cause lost he was transferred in a general shakeup and was ordered to Engine 5 in Linden, which is more than three miles from his home.

McCormac alleges that his suspension on April 13, 1921, was contrary to the civil service laws and to the veterans' preference act. He charges that this suspension was lifted later when the commissioner discovered it was illegal, but that the commissioner had caused it to be published in the Malden News, and in so doing was guilty of malicious and wrongful action. He claims he suffered greatly.

DISMISSAL DENIED.

A request for dismissal of the motion on the ground it was not covered by Section 1, Chapter 189, providing for action to be brought under the trustee process, was denied by Judge McLeod, who, however, reserved decision on the motion.

McCormac told on the witness stand of his record in the war and as a fireman. Captain Albert Bailey of Engine 3, whose report led to McCormac's suspension, was prevented from appearing in court by acute indigestion. He was to be a witness for the defence.

RICH GEMS FOR GLORIA MORGAN

Vanderbilt's Bride Wears Jewels That Rival Those of European Royalty

New York, March 6 (By International News Service).—Jewels rivaling the crown gems of many European kingdoms were worn by Miss Gloria Morgan when she became the bride of Reginald C. Vanderbilt at noon here today.

A necklace of precious stones ending in a pear-shaped diamond pendant, three-quarters of an inch in length, was Vanderbilt's gift to the woman who became his wife. The cost of the string is estimated at $500,000.

Miss Morgan was not the conventional "white satin and orange blossom" bride.

The entire color scheme was mauve and white, which for years have been Vanderbilt's coaching colors.

The gown which Miss Morgan wore today is gray on mauve tones. It is the newest thing in Paris, it is said, so new that it has not yet been seen in this country.

Fifty relatives and intimate friends gathered for the wedding. Miss Morgan is the daughter of Harry Hays Morgan, Consul-General to Brussels. Reginald C. Vanderbilt is the youngest son of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt. The ceremony was arranged for the Park Avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Stewart.

The bridal pair planned to leave immediately afterwards for Newport, R. I., to spend a few days at Mrs. Vanderbilt's estate at Sand Point Farm. They will sail Saturday for Europe to visit the bride's parents.

GUARDS PUT AT EVERY DOORWAY

"No Excuses!" Says Chief in Order for General Clean-up of the City

Chicago, March 6.—Stamping out commercialized vice under the most drastic police order ever drawn in Chicago may claim the entire attention of 3,000 of the city's available 4,575 patrolmen.

Charles C. Fitzmorris, chief of police, directed police captains to place uniformed men at the front and back doors of every known disorderly house in Chicago. Reform leaders have asserted that more than 500 such places are operating here. Two men to a house on each eight hour tour of duty would require approximately three-fifths of the uniformed police personnel.

Chief Fitzmorris informed the police captains that "no excuses will be accepted for failure to comply with this order."

LLOYD GEORGE'S TRIP TO U. S. POSTPONED

London, March 6.—Former Premier Lloyd George told Universal Service that he is anxious to go to America under the auspices of the English speaking union, but fears it will be impossible for him to go this year, notwithstanding his great desire to see the United States and meet his many friends there. He has been approached with many tempting offers to lecture in America, but is not considering any of them.

GERMAN ENVOY TO FRANCE IS DEAD

Munich, March 6 (By the Associated Press).—Dr. Wilhelm Mayer, German Ambassador to France, died here of "general weakness," it was announced today.

He was recalled by his government from Paris at the beginning of the Ruhr occupation. He was ill at the time, traveling against the orders of his physician.

Dr. Mayer, born at Enkenbach, Bavaria, November 18, 1874, went to school at Kaiserslautern, and after serving his time in the German army studied international law at Heidelberg, Munich and Wuerzburg. He was admitted to the bar in 1901. Through the death of his father-in law he inherited extensive farm lands in Lorraine and also considerable industrial properties.

He had served in the Reichstag as a member of the Centre party, and in 1919-20 was Minister of the Treasury in the Dauer Cabinet. He was appointed German Charge d'Affaires in Paris late in January, 1920, and with the resumption of full diplomatic relations later became German Ambassador.

In 1921 Dr. Mayer was prominently mentioned for the German Chancellorship, and in fact made an attempt to form a cabinet on President Ebert's request when the question of the allies' reparation ultimatum was to the fore, but found himself unable to get a ministry together.

REMINGTON WIDOW LEFT PENNILESS

Los Angeles, March 6.—Although he left a will bequeathing to his widow an estate valued at $150,000, Earle Remington's liabilities, it is found, have exceeded his assets by several thousand dollars, and the widow, Virginia Remington, under the circumstances, will receive practically nothing when the estate is settled. Remington's murder still baffles the authorities.

BLIND, SEES BY AIR PRESSURE ON CHEEKS

Chicago, March 6.—Deprived of eyesight, Carl Bostrum has learned to "see" with his cheeks, so that he walks daily and unaided about the campus of Northwestern University, where he is studying journalism.

The sensitized nerves of his face "see" buildings and trees, streets and the lake, doorways and stairs by noting delicate variations in air pressure. They respond to faint differences more sensitively than a barometer does. Out of the differences Bostrom has constructed such an accurate mental picture of the campus that he goes about without a guide or a cane.

"Each building has an atmospheric aura all its own," the sightless student said, as he breezed across the campus, guiding a reporter who had expected to guide him.

"You recognize buildings by the light rays emanating from them. I know them by their peculiar influences on the air about them. I see them with the nerves of my face.

"I'm sure I'll be able to get about as a reporter, even though I'm blind," he said. "I'm determined to be a newspaperman."

Bostrum has to familiarize himself with a locality, of course, before he is able to find his way unerringly. He must memorize the peculiar "feel" of different buildings. At Northwestern he had to make a mental map, keeping in mind the "appearance" of each of the many buildings of the fifty-acre campus.

That was easy, he says, because each building has a feeling all its own. Stones give the air a quality unlike that of brick, frame buildings were unlike any others, store fronts with a great deal of plate glass have a peculiar "look" to the man who "sees with his cheeks," and different buildings heights make differences in the air.

ALDRICH COUNTERS IN DIVORCE SUIT

Springfield, March 6.—Francis W. Aldrich, member of the Governor's Council, filed a cross bill alleging desertion to a divorce suit entered by his wife in which she charges cruel and abusive treatment. The couple have not been living together for some time, according to counsel for Aldrich. Mrs. Aldrich is said to be a descendant of President Van Buren's family. Her maiden name was Blanche Van Buren.

GIRL, 8, SEEKS $13,000 A YEAR FOR SUPPORT

New York, March 6.—Ann Cooper Hewitt, eight-year-old daughter of the late Peter Cooper Hewitt, has started suit in Jersey City through her mother, Mme. Maryon D'Erlanger of Paris, as guardian, to secure an income of $13,000 a year for her support from the estate of her father.

Ann C. Hewitt

Hewitt left an estate worth $1,305,500, with an annual income of $60,000. The will provided that the widow should have two-thirds of the income and the child one-third, but that in the event of the remarriage of the widow, she should have only one-third and the daughter two.

Upon the widow's marriage July 18, 1922, to Baron Robin D'Erlanger, executor of the will, the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, shut off the income of the child, and used the income of the mother to pay her debts, it said.

London, March 6.—Maxim Gorky, the Russian writer, has had enough of revolution. He is in a sanitarium near Berlin, recovering, he says, "from over-exposure to Russian Communism." Gorky hopes to become editor and publisher of a world review devoted to art and science in which politics will find no place.

'DREAM BABY' TO BE SHOWN IN COURT

London, March 6.—(By International News Service)—When the sensational divorce suit of John Hugo Russell was resumed today a maid testified she had found hairpins in the bachelor apartment of Harold Mayer.

The inference was drawn that the hairpins belonged to Mrs. Russell. Russell, son of Lord Ampthill, a rich member of the British peerage, alleges Mayer, the correspondent, is the father of Mrs. Russell's child.

Russell and his wife both came of rich and fashionable families and the case has created widespread interest. Mrs. Russell denies Mayer is the father of her baby, although she admits she entered into a compact with her husband when they were married that they should have no children.

Phyllis Gower, the maid, was the first witness today. It was she who told of finding hairpins in Mayer's bedroom.

It was expected the "Dream Baby" would be brought into court in order to compare its features with Mayer's.

Counsel for Mrs. Russell demanded that photographs of Russell, taken when he was a baby, be produced to compare them with the features of Mrs. Russell's child.

Lady Ampthill, mother of Russell, told of visiting Mrs. Russell. They discussed intimate subjects.

"After J left," said the witness, "I had the conviction that Mrs. Russell had never lived properly with my son."

DRIVER INSTEAD OF VICTIM AIDED

An automobile driven by John Silva of No. 64 Cornwall avenue, Somerville, today struck Edward A. Palfrey of Salem, on Summer street near Washington.

The usual procedure was reversed. Instead of Palfrey being taken to a hospital, it was Silva who made the trip to the Haymarket Relief. He had been so unnerved by the accident treatment was necessary.

Palfrey, on the other hand, although he had been pretty badly bruised, was able, with assistance to go to his place of employment on Bedford street.

OFFENCE MORAL ONE, MURRAY BELIEVED

Robert Boone Jefferson Murray, convicted polygamist and former prison inmate, now president of the Inter-State Drug Company, Inc., of No. 134 Devonshire street, appeared before the Public Utilities Commission at the State House today to defend himself against charges of obtaining his registration as stock salesman in Massachusetts in a fraudulent manner.

Murray was cross-examined by Attorney Edward Mahony for the commission.

Q.—When you registered as a salesman didn't you know you had been convicted of a felony? A.—No, not.

Q.—But you were convicted of polygamy? A.—I pleaded guilty to polygamy.

Q.—And as a result you were sentenced to two years in East Plymouth jail? A.—That is the way the sentence read.

Q.—What did you think you were convicted of? What did you think the nature of your crime was? A.—Never having had anything to do with criminal sessions I thought my offence was wholly a moral one, but I consider this wholly a business matter.

Questioned by Commissioner Leonard F. Hardy, Murray said when he signed the application no one explained to him what a felony was and that he had no counsel to advise him.

Attorney Michael H. Sisselo, off the commission he thought Murray was entitled to a license as a salesman. "Here you have a man who in 1916 pleaded guilty to polygamy and Attorney Mahony says that after he signed an application for a license as salesman. I doubt that even had he read the statute books would he have classed his offense as a felony.

"This is not the sort of a crime that should militate against him in business. Had he been guilty of larceny or some such crime it would be different."

Attorney Mahony told the commission that ignorance of the law should not be taken as an excuse. The commission took the matter under advisement.

Washington, March 6.—Charles E. Townsend, who retired March 4 as senator from Michigan, is under consideration for appointment to the International Joint Commission, which speaks for the American government in adjusting certain treaty questions.

BABY PLANE TO LAND ON BIG BOMBER

New York, March 6.—The "flea," the newest idea in flying, is to be tried out today by officers at Mitchel Field, Long Island, who look upon the experiment as one of the most hazardous undertakings upon which an airman ever has embarked.

The tryout, requiring consummate skill is to be made by Lieutenant Clyde V. Finter of Mitchel Field. Finter, Lawrence Sperry, the inventor, and officers of the field expect that test will go far to disclose the feasibility of launching and landing small airplanes from and on larger heavier-than-air machines or on dirigibles.

Lieutenant Finter will pilot the newest of a tiny Sperry biplane, weighing less than half a ton, in an attempt to attach his machine while in flight to the under side of a De Haviland 4.

If the experiment is successful experts expect it to lead to developments which eventually will result in equipping every bombing plane with smaller planes of superior speed, which, in warfare, can be employed as a protective weapon and for observation over a wide area with small chance of detection.

BLOWS OFF HIS HEAD WITH SHOTGUN

Victor Johnson, twenty-two years old, a night watchman in a Malden hat factory, was found with his head blown off in his room at No. 17 Tyler street, Maplewood. Alongside his body was an emptied can which had held "moonshine." A discharge from a shotgun had caused death.

NAVY EFFICIENT, WAR VETS AD MEN ARE TOLD

Seventy-five ad men were told attended the first regular meeting of the Grosscup-Pishon Post of the American Legion at Louie's.

Captain C. M. Simmers, U. S. N., manager of the Industrial Department of the Charlestown Navy Yard, one of the speakers, said that construction work of the navy was now so efficiently conducted that the United States can build warships as fast and as well as any other country.

General Mark L. Hersey declared that the influence of the United States in the Disarmament Conference was derived from its efficient navy and plans that were made for a mightier naval force.

Other speakers were James J. Mullen, Jr., chairman of the speakers bureau of the American Legion, who spoke of the work the Legion is doing for disabled veterans; Major Francis Tully, senior vice-commander of the Legion, whose subject was "Americanization Work in the Boston Public Schools," and Commander Alden Kenyon, who acted as chairman of the meeting.

GUESTS FLEE FIRE IN HOTEL SOMERSET

Guests at the Hotel Somerset were given a fire scare when flames were discovered in the suite of William Almy, Boston wool merchant, and his family, on the third floor.

The bed in Robert Almy's room was ablaze when Manager Frank C. Hall was notified.

The arrival of the firemen and the exodus from the third floor rooms caused many to leave their rooms. None, however, left the hotel. Fire men estimated the damage at $800. The cause of the fire was not determined.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxurious. Just a few applications will restore the beauty of your hair to fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur compound at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store and ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

HOW TO FORGET TROUBLES

TROUBLES knock up your system like Jack Dempsey knocks down his opponent.

Troubles deal blows both in the head and stomach—and they hurt the stomach more than they do the head!

Troubles give the stomach indigestion, slow up the liver—and then follow constipation and biliousness.

The way to get rid of troubles is to invigorate digestion, stimulate liver and bowels and tone up the entire system. The best way to do this—has been for the past 80 years—is to take Beecham's Pills.

Then you will feel so good that "troubles" become merely problems, to be solved readily by the clear, keen brain of health.

Newer Form of Iron Helps Give Renewed Vim and Energy

Actual blood tests show that a tremendous number of people lack iron in their blood and that they are ill for no other reason than lack of iron. Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a sickly, pale complexion, but causes nervousness, irritability, and easily fatigued, but if utterly robs them of that virile force, that stamina and strength of will, which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life. If you are weak, nervous and run-down, you owe it to yourself to try the new-er form of iron, known as Nuxated Iron. Begin today. Nuxated Iron is not a secret remedy, but one that is well known to physicians and druggists everywhere.

The Veteran Motorist—

is again highly pleased

Has found Socony dealers know that the little things count in motoring service

"Just the other evening my wife got me into my swallow tail to take in a concert at the auditorium. Of course on that particular evening I had to be low on gasoline. According to habit I docked the boat alongside a Socony pump on Broad Street.

"While the Socony man was giving her the five gallons I got out and started fooling with a fender-bolt that had worked loose. 'Better let me help you there,' he called out, 'you'll get yourself all dirty.'

"Now that fellow was the proprietor himself of just about the biggest garage in the city, but he met me more than half way. And I've often found the same spirit among Socony dealers in other places during the last dozen years. Perhaps it's because a lot of these dealers started in early when Socony was the pioneer, and haven't forgotten the old days when a motorist was in trouble a lot of the time.

"Certain it is, though, that if your radiator needs filling or your tires need the gauge, the typical Socony home-town dealer is on the job without asking. And then I for one always get a sort of human satisfaction out of dealing with a local man who is proud of his town and his job."

How is your motor running these days? Cold weather brings out the good or bad qualities of a gasoline. Socony has made more friends than any other gasoline and kept them chiefly because it is always dependable wherever you get it, particularly so in winter.

CHILDREN FOUGHT AS MOTHER LAY ILL

Brockton, March 6.—While Mrs. Hannah B. Dill of East Bridgewater lay stricken with a partial paralytic shock in her Summer street home, her two sons, Harry W. Dill and Carl Dill, and two daughters, Mrs. Lottie E. Nelson and Mrs. Sarah Bates, became engaged in a physical encounter that led to the court.

The details of the District Court hearing were rehearsed in Probate Court here when Attorney J. J. Geogan appeared in opposition to the petition of Mrs. Bates for the guardianship of the elderly woman.

The question of insanity was the principal issue, but the petitioners failed to convince Judge Chambers that Mrs. Dill was mentally deranged. Accordingly he suggested the appointment of an expert alienist to examine her.

side of the earth, including the Southern Cross, seen by Dante and Virgil when they crawled out on the other side of the earth, after climbing down Satan's back, holding on to his hairs.

YESTERDAY, in a college laboratory, an eggius driven by the heat of the sun was demonstrated by Bernard Grossman, inventor.

Will future promoters succeed in getting exclusive rights to use the sun's heat when the thing works well?

That would be no more preposterous than allowing individuals to monopolize the earth's surface, or the coal under it.

IN WARSAW, the Archimandrite Latyensko, explains why he killed the Metropolitan Georges, head of the Greek Church in Poland.

He said he planned at first to kill all the members of the Orthodox Synod in Poland as a protest against their separation from the Russian church. Some men still take their religion very hard, and believe that the Lord can be pleased by murder—not giving Him credit for any high degree of civilization.

AN ABLE GERMAN statesman predicts that the power and politics of France will upset the British Empire and lead to its disintegration.

Lenin, casually remarking that it seems about time for Russia to fight somebody, suggests, in the Russian newspaper Pravda, that there will soon come a great uprising in India. He expects the same thing in China, by the way.

All that is enough to worry England, maddened by the wreck of Continental business since the French seized the Ruhr. On top of gloomy predictions come several important defeats for Bonar Law's government at by-elections.

In a few months, international affairs in Europe and over Asia will be much better, or they will be in such a state as will almost make you wish for the big war back again.

SOME GENTLEMEN, facetiously perhaps, incorporated a "Safety Last Club" and engaged a twenty-five-year-old young man called "The Human Fly" to celebrate by climbing up the outside of the eighteen-story Martinique Hotel in New York city yesterday.

Thousands looked, as he crept up the outside of the building to the eighth floor—and then saw him drop to death.

"Safety First" is not a bad motto. And yet, great things have been done by those that put safety last. They did not recklessly court death, but counted death as nothing, compared with the task to be accomplished. Soldiers, martyrs, scientists, condemned for telling the truth, men of courage, thinking and talking ahead of their age, make up the glorious army of those that esteemed safety not at all. The army is led by the founder of Christianity.

SEEK TO LINK R. I. GAMBLERS WITH DOWNEY

Wakefield, R. I., March 6.—Police and State officials are making inquiries to ascertain whether any of the occupants in the mysterious "white cottage," near Narragansett Pier, where Edwin Meixner, Dr. Ira Win Carman and several others were fleeced out of thousands of dollars in a fake poolroom game, are a part of the gang that caused Paul Downey, the Boston youth, to embezzle more than $100,000 from the Federal Trust Co., in which he was employed.

Louis G. Silverman, of Newark, N. J., and George McRea, alias Henderson, are now on trial in the Superior Court here charged with robbing Meixner, Carman and others. During the hearings other men, known only to the State's witnesses and the complainants as "Rowan," "Wright," "Breen" and "Morton," have been mentioned. It is thought that they might have been connected with the Boston gang and a careful investigation is under way for the purpose of identifying them.

Silverman is now on trial. He testified that he had been hired by Dr. Carman to sell stock for fifty cents on the dollar to a man named Rowan, that could be purchased on the market for twenty cents. He denied that a "lost" pocketbook was used as a decoy to get Dr. Carman interested in horse racing, but that Rowan engaged Carman in conversation along that line. He said Rowan took them both to a man named Wright, who was stopping at the Biltmore who gave them a "tip" on a horse, offering to take them to his club at the pier.

He said they were driven to the "white cottage" where he, Carman and Rowan made bets on three races and won on each. In return for the information, he said, they each gave Wright half of their winnings, about $4,000 in all.

SUBSIDY DEFEAT PUTS U. S. SHIPPING UNDER HANDICAP

HITS ALL AMERICAN BUSINESS

Head of Owners' Association Warns Citizens of Interior of Nation

By W. S. COUSINS.

Copyright, 1923, by Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, March 6.—American shipping is operating under its greatest handicap at present W. L. Marvin, vice-president of the American Ship Owners' Association, said today.

The failure of the ship subsidy bill to pass the Senate has made it impossible to operate profitably or expand the European routes, and has meant a blow struck at every department of progressive business in America, he declared.

In speaking of the ship owners' problem, Mr. Marvin said:

"In about a month the U. S. Shipping Board will announce plans for the disposition or operation of the government ships, built during the war. Until then it is difficult to make a forecast.

TURN TO SOUTH AMERICA.

"A number of American ship concerns have already taken steps to conserve and strengthen some of the lines operating on a favorable basis. They will, moreover, concentrate their attention on the South American trade routes and the coastal routes, where good progress is being made at the present time. The Ward and Clyde routes now are receiving preference in the matter of carrying mails and can develop their passenger and freight traffic.

"There is, in the foreign trade, only enough tonnage for sixty per cent. of the trade. What a contrast between the present policy of the American government and the protective policy which prevailed prior to 1855, and under which the American merchant marine was the mistress of the seas, and the American flag was to be seen in every port of the civilized world.

"All of the important maritime nations today give some measure of help and protection to their own shipping.

BRITISH SUBSIDIES.

"The British government subsidizes all of her main routes and assists in securing cargoes. Some years ago, it was discovered that Egyptian shippers of cotton refused to move any of their products on American ships, even though the latter's freight rates were lower than those of their British competitors.

"America is a large country, and unfortunately some people who live and work in the interior sections do not realize the importance of manning the ocean trade routes. It is manifestly the duty of the congressional representatives of these sections instead of continually raising the cry of 'Wall street' as they did in the ship subsidy controversy, to lead their people to the acceptance of broad and progressive policies.

"Only in this way can we retain our greatness and enhance our wealth and enjoyment."

Rehearsals for Vincent Club Show Begin Next Monday, Betty Alden Hears

By BETTY ALDEN.

SINCE Miss Suzanne Dabney made her professional debut as a singer about a year ago, society has naturally shown no small interest in her career. I expect that many of the fashionable will make their way to Jordan Hall this evening for the concert which is the daughter of Mrs. Walter Dabney is giving there.

Remember, a number of years ago, when the Vincent Club presented that semi-talking operetta, "Hello Prince!"? It was in this show that Miss Dabney's rich soprano voice delighted the audience with some very clever Chinese songs. Those who saw "Hello Prince!" remember also the snappy cabaret scene in the last act, every turn of which had to be repeated again and again. Remember the "Baked Bean Rag," rendered by the famous Vincent octette, which is always one of the peppiest groups in the show.

The Dabneys have been prominent members of the Boston colony at Bar Harbor, and if I was there, I believe, that she made her first professional appearance during the Summer. Later in the season she gave a concert in Nahant for which the members of the North Shore colony turned out with flattering enthusiasm.

SPEAKING of the Vincent Club—rehearsals for this Spring's show are to begin next Monday at the Copley-Plaza. "Take It From Buddha" is the name of the operetta, written by that versatile matron, Mrs. Ben'ricks H. Whitman. The latter, I hear, is finding her sojourn at Palm Beach altogether too delightful to bring to an end as shortly as she had planned, and is remaining on there for another week.

The other night Mrs. Whitman was among the guests for whom Mr. and Mrs. John K. Mitchell entertained at the Everglades Club. Others in the company included Harold Vanderbilt and Mr. and Mrs. John Magee, the latter Mrs. Whitman's hosts during her stay at Palm Beach.

HORATIO NELSON SLATER of New York, formerly of Boston, has leased a cottage at White Sulphur Springs for the Spring. Also at the Springs is Larz Anderson of Brookline and Washington, who spends much of his time on the golf links of the popular Southern resort.

"GIRL with Fan." That might very easily be the name of the picture printed above. As a matter of fact, it's really Miss Ellen Greenough, who only recently caused no end of a flutter among her set when they learned of her engagement to Parkwick Stires of New York, a senior at Harvard.

Which, anyone will admit, is vastly more "thrilling" than merely swinging a fan about, regardless of how gracefully she may do it. Miss Greenough, who made her debut last year, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert B. Greenough of Brookline. She's quite tall and a distinct brunette, with masses of dark wavy hair and lovely teeth. Her marriage to young Stires, who's the son of the Reverend Dr. Ernest M. Stires of St. Thomas' Church in New York, will not take place until next Winter.

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS CURTIS and Lawrence Curtis, of Beacon street, have joined the Boston colony at Hot Springs, Va., where they are stopping at the Homestead.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM DUANE of Boston spent the week-end at Newport at the LaForge Cottage.

ROCKEFELLER'S TAPESTRIES IN CUSTOM PROBE

Washington, March 6—Irregularities in the acquisition and importation of the famous Rochefoucauld tapestries by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., are under investigation by the governments of France and the United States.

A careful search of records in Paris failed to reveal that the French treasury benefitted as a result of the sale.

Agents of the U. S. Treasury Department say they have discovered a difference of $1,138,500 between the appraised valuation and that stated in the invoice for importing the six panels picturing "The Hunt of the Unicorn."

J. D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Instead of being $1,150,000, the sum which J. D. Rockefeller is said to have paid for the works of art, there was an omission of two ciphers, making the declared value $11,500.

Ernest W. Camp, chief of U. S. Customs, said:

"Treasury officials will confer today and decide what course to follow. Of course we do not feel that Mr. Rockefeller was himself familiar with the irregularities that have developed, but we will necessarily make a most searching inquiry and satisfy ourselves on every point."

The French government, through treasury agents, is attempting to discover whether the famous tapestries were sold by Count Rochefoucauld to Eduardo Lacarde, an antiquary, who subsequently sold them to Rockefeller, or whether Lacarde was only a commissionaire.

"Through secretaries, both these men reported, "the sale is not concluded."

Hang Up New Record by Fox-Trotting 141-2 Hours

London, March 6.—It was announced from Scotland today that two members of the staff of a dancing establishment in Edinburgh had put up a record of fourteen hours and thirty-six minutes for continuous dancing.

This report came through directly after it became known that a couple at Sunderland had fox-trotted continuously for nine and a half hours.

$4,800,000 FOR POSTAL MEN IN 15 BIG CITIES

By Universal Service.

Washington, March 6.—A congestion of the mails that threatened serious consequences to the postal service in from ten to fifteen of the larger postoffices of the country was averted through eleventh-hour appropriations made by Congress, running to some $4,800,000.

Because of the lack of sufficient funds, curtailment in the allowances for postal workers in San Francisco, Detroit, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Minneapolis and several other cities went into effect a month ago with the result that serious delays, both in the handling and delivery of first and other classes of mail prevailed, due to insufficient forces of employes.

A hearing for tomorrow at 10.30 a. m. has been granted an organization calling itself the "Mothers' League" of Revere, which will plead before the Public Utilities Commission for cheaper gas and electricity. The women declare that the monthly flat charge of thirty-five cents a meter is excessive and unfair.

HYDE PARK GETS NEW POLICE STATION

Mayor Curley's loan orders, amounting to $650,000, met with obstacles in the City Council that delayed the passage of two of them amounting to $300,000.

A $200,000 loan order for a new police station for the Hyde Park district, and a $150,000 loan order for a new outpatient building of the Boston Sanitorium were passed. The order for further improvements to the William J. Barry playground in Charlestown at a cost of $200,000 was referred to the finance committee, which awaits the election of a president.

TRADE IS HURT IN RUHR, SAYS HOOVER

Washington, March 6 (By International News Service)—General condition resulting from occupation of the Ruhr valley by the French, is believed by Secretary of Commerce Hoover to be chiefly responsible for interference with American shipments of goods in and out of the occupied area.

Hoover said many complaints have been received by his department against shipments being held up. It added, however, that the French export tax, repudiated by the Germans, also has a bearing on the interference with congested traffic.

The many protests received are immediately turned over to the State Department, and Secretary Hoover was said today to be hopeful that the French and Belgian authorities might be able in time to regularize the administrative routine of the region sufficiently to reduce present difficulties.

In all their dealings with the matter, it was said, American officials will seek to avoid raising serious differences between France and the United States.

At the same time the French government will be given opportunity to judge just how much damage is being done to American trade. If in the course of time more difficulties are encountered, it is possible that representations of a more formal character may be made.

Complaints that goods consigned to American importers are held to the occupied region subject to a 10 per cent. export duty exacted by the French have resulted in inquiries to establish the facts and on record is any of these cases have been returned by American consular officials.

It has been said at the State Department that each instance of goods detained would be dealt with on its merits.

STURDY EMMA DONS TROUSERS NETS THIEF

Shandaken, N. Y., March 6—All the good folks of this town are proud of Emma John W. Winston, retired New York hotelman and Mrs. Winston in whose home Emma is a domestic, will also be praise louder than all.

Through nine years of service ever since she came from Austria, the Winstons have learned to love Emma. And when they went to Europe, leaving the big house empty, Emma was farmed out to Mrs. Ida Baish, but instructed to keep a watchful eye on the house.

EMMA GETS A TIP.

One day Emma got a tip that someone was unlawfully inhabiting the house.

After hacking snowdrifts in a five foot for three miles, she arrived at the scene, slipped on a pair of trousers and hurried to the house on the hill.

On the second floor she found a stranger seated near a bureau drawer, surrounded by recently opened bottles of perfume.

Emma pointed a stern finger.

"What are you doing here?" "Nothing," was the answer.

"Tell that to the Sheriff," Emma told him, tiffed.

EMMA RUNS A BLUFF.

He gave her a rifle standing against a bed. It was empty, and Emma pretended to load it with cartridges from her pocket. The intruder, keen lips hard in his right pocket. Emma admits she was scared, but when she searched him he was unarmed.

In the Shandaken police station the man admitted he had robbed the home in January. He said he had returned to finish the job.

JUGGLER SHOWS NEW TRICKS AT KEITH'S

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

THERE is always one distinctive mark by which you can tell the imported performer in vaudeville from the selected American brother. He will insist upon waving the Stars and Stripes, finally entwining them with the colors of his native land.

It was that way at B. F. Keith's yesterday, where Enrico Rastelli, lately from all over Europe, made his first glimpse of an American audience and listened for the applause that must have seemed a long time arriving at its proper volume.

Rastelli is a juggler who has been proclaimed the old World's best bet in tossing tennis balls, golf balls and cannon balls. His matinée run to splendid style, but just to show that any old thing thrown carelessly into the air will fall gracefully into his hands he played with short sticks and long poles with the same result.

FURNISHES THRILLS.

Rastelli's debut on these strange but friendly shores was not a rough passage that ended barely forty-eight hours ago, but it gave him time to order a new juggling flag as a decoration for his really sensational act.

It was a pretty good flag, too, and needed only four or five more stripes to make it perfect. This young artist from Italy has the most responsive neck and shoulders ever exhibited in vaudeville and with them he furnished most of his exquisite thrills.

Whatever test of balancing or juggling he might be engaged upon for the moment was made secondary by the was a large ruby her ball rolled around his shoulders, chased itself to the top of his fluffy haired head and then rolled back to a secure resting place in the region of his neck-band.

That the first day's audience was behind in its demonstration of appreciation was undoubtedly due to the novelty of Rastelli's act. It began in such a matter of fact style that its marvelous accomplishments were well on their way to an end before the audience aroused its bewildering admiration. Before he had finished, however, Rastelli convinced you that he will enjoy a prosperous American tour.

VALENTINO'S WIFE IN PLAY.

Mrs. Rodolph Valentino, the original Mrs. Rodolph, if you please, peeped at you from behind an Edgar Allen Woolf playlet called "A Regular Girl." She had already done very well in pictures and is also accredited with being something of a real actress as well. In this latter role she was not so convincing, though it may be admitted in all fairness that here was little for her to do except appear before the multitude and show what a nice looking girl the popular Valentino lost during his quest for fame. The young lady is a smart looking brunette who still wears her hair in the bobbed fashion of the hairpin period.

There was something of real joy in the fifteen minutes Scella Mayhew sang to you and chatted intimately about things in general and her own troubles in particular. There was a twinkle in her eye that carried you back to the good old days when we had the musical comedy stage by the ears. Whether you care for vocal syncopation or not you're bound to like Miss Mayhew.

Oh, yes, there were other things on the bill—many other things, ranging from the trained bears of Emile Pallenberg, and the grand opera of Bezazian and Wilda, to Aesop's Fables in picture form.

THIRD FLOOR BACK AT ST. JAMES

"The Closing of the Third Floor Back," a drama that has toured the country, gave Walter Gilbert of the Boston Stock Company his opportunity to show the completions were well on their way to an end before the audience aroused its bewildering admiration. Before he had finished, however, Rastelli convinced you that he will enjoy a prosperous American tour.

The drama was shown in Boston twelve years ago and since that time has been presented in nearly every city of appreciable size in the United States. The Boston Stock Company scored a success when they decided to offer it, judging from the greeting that rewarded the performance.

Walter Gilbert as "The Stranger" was given a feature role considerable out of the ordinary run of stock characters. And he lived up to the role, needless to say. Adelyn Bushnell as "Shasta" was the everlovely girl that has won her deep affection in Boston theatre goers who joined the Boston Stock Company early this season.

And, supported by the Petite Symphony Orchestra, directed by Charles Hector, scored another success with the musical program. This is one feature of the St. James that accounts for the large number of "season seats."

SPIRITED BILL AT ORPHEUM

It is easy to understand why "Broken Chains," the photo feature drawn yesterday at Loew's Orpheum, was the first prize of $10.00 in the recently conducted scenario contest. This is an all-around produce non in the line of dramatic fiction, well cast and brilliantly directed. Malcolm McGregor, who attracted considerable attention for his fine work in "The Prisoner of Zenda," has the role of Chris.

Eastertide, who undergoes a spiritual regeneration and learns the meaning of courage through love, Colleen Moore lends distinction by her sensitive characterization of the girl wife of a brutal outlaw ranchman.

The vaudeville section was unusually excellent, being topped by Ethel Davis, a popular musical comedy star, and assisted at the piano by Freddy Rich. Next in turn was "Smiles Sweeter," a natural confection with a bevy of sugar-coated misses. Other performers included Cartmell Myers, Jack Waldron, creators of smiles, tunes and at-ne Valdo, offering "Dance Variet.es, and Pathe News.

Buster Keaton was also shown in his latest production "Day Dreams."

"WHITE FLOWER" AT LOEW'S STATE

Betty Compson in "The White Flower" and a photo-adaptation by Meiro of "The Famous Mrs. Fair," the popular stage success, was responsible for an overflow gathering of motion picture fans at Loew's State Theatre yesterday. Miss Compson plays the part of a young half-American half-Hawaiian girl who is in love with a young American, the stalwart king of Island. Miss Compson is accorded splendid support. The picturization of "The Famous Mrs. Fair" has been carried out with remarkable fidelity and in it Fred Niblo, the director, has accomplished perhaps the best work of his career. There were also news and comedy reels.

'BRASS' SHOWS PITFALLS OF DIVORCE

The screen version of Charles G. Norris' justly famed novel "Brass" had its world's premiere at the Park Theatre last night. The production is made by the Warner Brothers and is directed by Sidney Franklin.

Amid a big cast of screen actors, many of whom are classed as stars, the work of Monte Blue and Marie Prevost stands out unmistakably.

"Brass" shows the pitfalls of a misinated couple. Marriage, poverty, warring temperaments, frivolity, infidelity and divorce. The picture runs the gamut of the whole list.

DOMESTIC TRAGEDY.

Then comes the change caused by acquisition of wealth. But does it bring happiness? The picture shows it does not. The story is the domestic tragedy of Philip Baldwin and his young wife, the characters portrayed by Mr. Blue and Miss Prevost. Miss Prevost makes the wife a frivolous, pleasure-loving woman and when a child is born to the couple she rebels against the continued genteel poverty and seeks redress through the medium of the divorce courts.

PREACHES SERMON.

"Brass" preaches a sermon more powerful than thousands that are delivered from the pulpits every Sunday. It cannot fail to bring home to those who witness the picture the evils and pitfalls of divorce. It is a play that makes for better comradeship and better understanding between husband and wife and one that makes for better homes of the real kind. Mr. Franklin's work in directing the picture is masterful.

"Brass" should have no difficulty in filling the Park Theatre at every performance during its run here.

Coming Plays

"It Is the Law," a stirring melodrama is announced as the attraction at the Wilbur next week.

"Greenwich Village Follies," fresh from its long engagement in New York, will move into the Shubert next Monday.

"Spite Corner" will be the attraction at the St. James Theatre next week. It will be seen for the first time in Boston.

William Courtenay in "Her Temporary Husband" will occupy the Arlington Theatre stage next week.

"MIMIC WORLD" RIOT OF JOY

Youth with all its dash, vivacity and charm, is the keynote of Carl and Davenport's "Mimic World" which delighted matinee and evening audiences at the Gayety Theatre yesterday.

Headed by Jamie Coughlin, the company and chorus of youths and maidens—they say not one of them is more than twenty-one years old—kept the audiences laughing at bright and clever comedy or equally entertained with specialties, including some of the snappiest dancing that ever set pulses tingling.

Jamie Coughlan is assisted by Harry Fostersn and Harry Morris, both natural comedians. Heica Booth, the prima donna, has an exquisite voice and rare personal charm, and Estelle Powell is billed as the "Joy Girl of Jazzy Songland," certainly put joy and jazz into the show.

FAMOUS ORCHESTRA AT STATE BALLROOM

An overflow gathering of dance lovers greeted McElnelly's Singing Orchestra last night at the State Theatre ballroom, where this leader and his accomplished associates gave a long series of popular dance compositions. The engagement will be continued this evening and tomorrow evening. This signalizes the first metropolitan appearance of this famous orchestra since their record success in vaudeville when they scored as headliners at Keith's Boston theatre. The ballroom, with its many modern facilities and tremendous capacity, presents an alluring picture to lovers of modern dancing.

GIFT FOR GOV. COX BY "THE FOOL" COMPANY

Governor and Mrs. Channing Cox appeared on the stage of the Selwyn Theatre last evening as guests of honor of the company of "The Fool," and the management of the Selwyn Theatre.

During the intermission Governor and Mrs. Cox were presented with gifts by Alexandra Carlisle, leading lady of the company. Mrs. Cox received a large bouquet of roses, while the Governor was given a copy of the book, "The Fool," containing autographs of each member of the company. The presentation was made at the close of the third act.

CHARLESTOWN MAN DROPS DEAD

George H. Bredel, fifty-two years old, died suddenly on the coal wharf at No. 161 Medford street, Charlestown. Bredel, a quarter of a century ago, was well known in club circles in the "Neck section," and had been active in June 12 celebrations in that district. He resided on Marshall place, Charlestown. Death was due, the police say, to natural causes.

DEBORA THORNTON

ARLINGTON GETS BROADWAY STAR

In another week a change of policy will go into effect at the Arlington Theatre that will bring that playhouse back into the family of theatres of the first class with established Broadway productions and a two-dollar scale.

The first bill for public favor under this arrangement will be made next Monday, when William Courtenay will be seen in the Arlington Square district in "Her Temporary Husband," a comedy that has enjoyed extensive popularity in other large cities, but which has been denied a Boston showing up to this time.

Mr. Courtenay is not a stranger to local playgoers—indeed, he is very well known and favorably regarded in these regions. Possibly the most outstanding mark in his several local appearances was his engagement at the Plymouth a few seasons ago in "Under Cover." In this he broke the Boston record for the actual runs, covering twenty-seven consecutive weeks. This record has never been equalled.

In "Her Temporary Husband" Mr. Courtenay will be supported by Virginia Hammond, George Hammond, Henry Mortimer, Betty Linley and Jack Faulton.

GAY MOMENTS IN "HIPPITY HOP"

"Hippity Hop," which opened at Waldron's Casino yesterday, is an unusually gay, frolicsome and colorful show, even for those days of advanced burlesque. Vaudeville and dramatic movling pictures complete the three-in-one continuous program.

Heading the "Hippity Hoppers" are Mac Mallter and Stanton, both notably known as the "long and short of it," on account of the amusing contrast in their builds. They have kept the audience roaring. "Shorty" MacAllister's slide down the long stairway and his absurdities in the photograph gallery, and the equally amusing comedy offered by Harry Shannon, were high spots of fun.

The company is strong in numbers as well as talent, including fifty entertainers. The chorus is what is should be, young, pretty, snappy and dancing and singing with life and gaiety.

Plays That Remain

COLONIAL—Ed Wynn in "The Perfect Fool." Musical revue with a lot of girls and Mr. Wynn in his own spirited drolleries.

MAJESTIC—Gertrude Hoffmann in "Hello, Everybody." A revue of ancient and modern—by Miss Hoffmann, and many other features.

WILBUR—"Listening In," a comedy with a ghostly touch that sends chills down your spine. Mysterious, but very high humored.

HOLLIS—"Lightnin'," the play that is breaking all theatrical records. Best drama in town, an amusing American comedy.

SHUBERT—"Elsie," the musical play that upset Chicago, and is now performing the same old here. This is the last week.

PLYMOUTH—"Just Married," with Vivian Martin and Lyonel Overman. Something in farce that will overturn your sides.

SELWYN—"The Fool," a play by Channing Pollock that has a interest for all classes of playgoers. The Golden Rule made in drama.

TREMONT TEMPLE—"The Third Alarm," a sensational photoplay that glorifies the brave firemen and provides a thrill or two as well.

"NEW MUSICAL SHOW AT THE ARLINGTON

"The Girl From Up There," shown at the Arlington Theatre last night, is a creditable play, of the light and merry sort. Harlan Briggs is the influential author of the book, composer and principal comedian. There is a sparkling wit in the lines, together with a fund of melody. Every number has a swing and go, while the lyrics are neatly rhymed and humorous. The songs have a haunting melody and are sung by Mr. Briggs, Dowers Thornton, Fred Palmer, Viola Scott and William Milne. The chorus is well worth gazing upon and appears in many spectacular effects.

Harlan Briggs and Miss Thornton made the greatest individual hits. Briggs proved himself a real comedian. Viola Scott is wholly charming and her voice is pleasing. Fred Palmer and William Milne are equally delightful and, like Mr. Briggs, can sing and dance.

The scenes of the play are laid in Mexico and permit handsome costumes, both for the principals and the chorus. The piece has something of a plot, but if it had lacked that quality no great sense of loss would have been felt. The chorus was generously used in the more important periods of the action.

"The Girl From Up There" should enjoy a happy week at the Arlington.

"HEART OF WETONA" AT THE SOMERVILLE

"The Heart of Wetona" was produced yesterday by the Somerville Players with exceptional skill and care. This play originally brought Robert Ellsler to the front in his profession. It is a distinctly American play, with the scenes at a United States army post in the Southwest. The work of the leading members of Mr. McArdle's organization was appreciated by two audiences yesterday. Particular mention is due Harry Bond, Ann Hamilton, Frank Thomas and Joseph Granby for their efforts in difficult roles.

MANY TEACHERS IN CHELSEA ILL

Owing to illness among teachers in the public schools of Chelsea, Dr. Parlin, superintendent of schools, is experiencing difficulty in finding instructors to keep the sessions running.

OTIS SKINNER SCORES HIT AT TREMONT

Better than any sermon.

Search the dictionary through from end to end and you can find no words that better describe "Mister Antonio," by Booth Tarkington, in which Otis Skinner is starring at the Tremont Theatre this week.

All of the hypocrisy of the "overgood" people, who are ready to damn the weak and fallen, is brought out in its true light by Otis Skinner who, as Mister Antonio, a mere Italian hurdy-gurdy man, portrays one of the most lovable characters on the stage.

The play, written for Mr. Skinner, is a simple little story of the mayor of a small town, who falls into the hands of the owners of the street in New York. He falls to the very bottom and wakes up after a night of drunkenness to find that he has been robbed of money, clothes—everything. As he is about to be thrown out into the street by a bartender he is saved by Mister Antonio, the humble hurdy-gurdy man.

Truly it is a master performance that Mr. Skinner gives. Marion Warning Manley, as June Ramsey, the servant girl, was splendid. Joseph Brennan, the manager, interpreted the part admirably. Robert Harrison as Joe, the insane partner of Mister Antonio, did a hard part well and Mary Mallon, as Pearl, a woman of questionable character, was so natural that she seemed to have dropped into the stage from the very locality in which she was supposed to have lived.

That the audience appreciated Mr. Skinner's work and his play was evidenced by the number of curtain calls. A great actor in a great play is all that can be said of Otis Skinner in "Mister Antonio." The play was here several seasons ago. It should come again.

Mr. Warwick, widely known as a dramatic and motion picture star, is in Asheville, N. C., recuperating from pneumonia. In a letter to Miss Day he declared he has never met her.

WORLD REVOLT PREDICTED BY LENINE

By International News Service

Moscow, March 6.—The whole world is passing into a movement which will give birth eventually to universal revolution, but we have to consider the fact that the outside world, hostile to us, has been divided into two militaristic and capitalistic camps," declared Nicolai Lenine, head of the Soviet government, in a statement today.

The statement was issued primarily in support of the proposal to give wider powers to the Committee of Workers and Peasants.

"The western capitalistic powers," said the statement, "are doing their utmost, partly consciously and partly automatically, to push us backward. They would employ internal conflicts in their own countries in an effort to destroy the Socialist movement.

"International relations have become such one country is enslaved by its conquerors, notably Germany. The western powers are making use of their victory to wring further concessions from the classes that were already oppressed. They are attempting to postpone the general revolution.

"In order to secure our existence until the next military conflict between the counter-revolutionary west and the revolutionary and nationalistic east it is necessary for the people in the east to gain time.

"We must strive to build up our Russian State in which the working class holds the leadership. But in order to build up the nation, there must be discipline and the leaders must have power to order and execute constructive work."

Lenine said capital was increasing in strength in the Eastern countries, that at the same time he urged that "the power of the workers be preserved in Russia and peasant leadership be cherished."

Lenine made "reference to Germany, saying that it was a "capitalist country which was being bled by other capitalistic powers."

A Simple Way to Remove Dandruff

"USE LIQUID ARVON"

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

HERRICK RAPS DRINKERS IN CONGRESS

By Cosmopolitan News Service

Washington, March 6.—One Congressman, at least, lived on $30 per month during the 67th Congress, which ended March 4. He said so. He is Manuel Herrick of Oklahoma, "daredevil" stunt flyer, etc., who was defeated after serving one term.

For he is in favor of increasing Congressmen's salaries from $7,500 to $10,000 per year as recently advocated by Representative William D. Upshaw of Georgia.

Herrick said the reasons he has lived cheaply is that he hasn't tried to "put on the dog" and further that he isn't married.

HERRICK'S PARTING SHOT.

In a parting shot at the Congress which thrust him into the public eye, Herrick today issued a scathing denunciation of liquor law violations among members of the House.

"Lonely Manuel," blaming his defeat on the "big interests," charged his colleagues had openly violated the Volstead Act during the sessions of Congress just ended. He declared he was "damn glad" to get away from the capital and would carry his fight "direct to the people by my two airplanes."

Cong. Herrick

"I saw so much drinking around Congress, without looking for it that it made me sick," he said. "I've seen Congressmen bring liquor into the Capitol and I've seen 'em liquored up in the House cloak rooms."

The trouble with Congress, Herrick said, was due to "having so many corporation lawyers as members."

"The country lawyers are prone to listen to advice from the great corporation lawyers and between them they run things."

183 LIVE IN HOTELS.

Congressman Upshaw is a preacher and lives, while in Washington, in a modest way. He said he has felt the pinch resulting from a $7,500 salary.

Leading hotels provide shelter for 193 Congressmen, including many who have families. Apartment buildings shelter many more, leaving only a few who live in actual "homes."

The manager of a leading hotel today said it is impossible for a Congressman and wife to live on a $7,500 salary.

As to the cost of living in an apartment, this man figured as follows: Rent $225, cook and maid $123; groceries $110; clothing $100.

This makes a total of $560 per month against a salary of $625 per month. He said these figures are for just plain, systematized living such as the average business man adheres to, with no extras of any sort.

MAURICE NAMED IN THEIR DIVORCE SUIT

(Photo by International News Reel)

MR. AND MRS. TOM FURNESS

Misconduct with Maurice Mouvet, the noted dancer, was charged by Furness, prominent in British shipping circles, in a cross petition to the suit of his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Fae Furness, an American girl, who petitioned for a degree of restitution of conjugal rights. Maurice vehemently denies the charges made by the husband. The trial attracted much attention in London.

AUTOIST HITS AGED MAN AND FLEES

Another "death's head driver" struck and crippled a pedestrian and drove on.

The victim is an aged man William T. Briggs, married, of No. 77 Ruggles street. He was struck at Sarsfield and Tremont streets, Roxbury. He will lose his left leg.

He was crossing the street when the car knocked him down. The wheels passed over his left leg. The autoist increased speed and escaped.

Among many witnesses of the happening, not one could be found who had obtained the number of the car's plates. Briggs was picked up by William J. Austin of No. 45 Ashland street, Malden a truck driver, and was removed to the City Hospital.

COSTLY TO GET HAWAII GOATS

By International News Service.

Honolulu, March 6.—You can get almost people's goats for nothing by a little time and kidding, but it is going to cost the Territory of Hawaii $80,000, provided it can also enlist the aid of Uncle Sam's soldiers and marines, with their guns and ammunition, to "get" the wild goats on the Island of Hawaii. The next Territorial Legislature will be asked to appropriate the necessary funds.

Large districts of the Island of Hawaii are so overrun by wild goats, according to A. L. C. Atkinson of the Territorial Board of Forestry and Agriculture, that the forests are being destroyed, waterheds ruined and a serious problem created for plantations and ranches.

In a big drive last Summer approximately 7,000 wild goats on Hawaii Island were killed. It is estimated that there are still 25,000 nannies and billies at large.

3 KILLED AND ONE IS DYING FROM GAS

Three men are dead of gas poisoning in the South End and a fourth is dying at City Hospital after an apparent attempt at suicide by gas at the Back Bay.

Roderick McQueen, forty-four years old, of No. 42 Dundee street, Back Bay, is the dying man. He was removed there by the police after he was found in his room at his home by his wife. Gas was escaping from an open jet in his room.

George Lothrop, eighty years old, was removed unconscious by the police from his room at No. 23 Gleneste street, South End, to the City Hospital. Physicians were at first unable to diagnose his malady, but finally determined on gas poisoning. He died shortly after arriving at the hospital.

Allen Russell, forty-four years old, single, a lodger at No. 483 Massachusetts avenue, was found dead in bed in his room of carbon monoxide gas poisoning. A gas jet in the room was found burning and it is believed to have been lighted last Saturday, when the man was last seen. The continual burning of the gas in the room devoid of ventilation is ascribed the cause of the man's death.

Sylva Rancourt, one of the four victims in the recent gas tragedy at No. 502 Shawmut avenue, South End, in which his wife of two years and another lodger lost their lives, died at the City Hospital, survived by his young wife by several days. William J. Kirwin, the fourth victim of the affair, who was overcome in an attempt to aid the other victims, is at the hospital on the road to recovery.

HARVARD TO AID EXPEDITION TO OLDEST RUINS

New York, March 6.—Having cemented cordial relations of co-operation with the newly formed Archeological Institution of Yucatan, in Merida, the Yucatan capital, American archeologists hope to begin next January a scientific survey and excavation to reveal the mysteries of the lost Maya civilization, ruins and relics of which are the oldest found on the American hemisphere.

Excavation probably will be first undertaken in the ruins of the ancient city of Chichen Itza. The work will be under auspices of the Carnegie Institution. It will have, however, the active support of the experts of the Museum of the American Indian of this city and the Peabody Museum of Harvard University.

This was the news brought to New York today by Dr. Marshall H. Saville, curator of the Latin-American collection of the Museum of the American Indian. Dr. Saville thirty-three years ago, as a member of the Harvard Archaeological expedition, was one of the pioneers in uncovering the marvels of this old civilization of Yucatan, antedating by centuries even that of the Aztecs and Toltecs of Mexico.

Some archeologists say the temples and relics of Uxmal, Chichen Itza, Motul and Ake mark a civilization as ancient, if not more so, than those coming to light through exploration at Luxor of the tombs of Tutankh Amen and other Pharaohs in the Valley of the Khan.

FEAR DISEASE AT WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Wellesley College girls, who have never had scarlet fever, have been requested by President Pendleton to stay away from amusement places in the vicinity of the college and to refrain from visiting Boston because of the number of cases of the disease in the college and immediate neighborhood.

There are five or six college students who are afflicted with the disease. There are also quite a number of cases in Wellesley, Medway Natick and other adjoining communities popular with the girls.

President Pendleton urged that the students keep away from these places until the Spring recess, which starts March 23.

BOY BRAVES LIONS FOR SICK SISTER

London, March 6.—The happiest, roudest boy in London today is fifteen-year-old Alfred Garcia, son of an omnibus conductor.

Alfred recently was offered £50 if he would enter a cage of circus lions with the trainer. For two days the boy considered the offer, his thoughts constantly turning to the thirteen-year-old crippled sister who would be benefited immeasurably by the operation the money would make possible.

"Lions or no lions, I'll do it," he decided, and engaged a first rate surgeon. Then he fulfilled his part of the bargain.

The surgeon, however, learned of the circumstances and insisted upon giving his services free of charge, whereupon Alfred promptly turned over the money to his sister.

GRACEFUL BUSTLE IS DECREED

Chicago, March 6.—Bustles more graceful than those grandmother wore will be a necessary part of the apparel of the well-dressed woman this Spring, Mme. Alla Rigy, president of the Fashion Art League of America, said today in discussing models to be shown at the league's convention, March 12-15.

"It will not be the stiff ungraceful thing our grandmothers wore," she explained. "But will be a mass of ruffles and lace.

"The lace and ribbons and other returns to the very feminine styles of 1889 that are now being featured, demand that the material be bunched into fullness somewhere."

HIGGINSON-ROGERS WEDDING MARCH 24

Invitations have been sent out for the wedding of Miss Corina Higginson, daughter of Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson of Boston, and Bernard Fowler Rogers, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard F. The other list comprises several Chicagoans, and it is expected the host man will be Albert Y. Gowen.

HABEAS CORPUS WRIT FOR MRS. ANNA BUZZI

New York, March 6.—Another move to secure the release of Mrs. Anna Buzzi, held in $25,000 bail as a material witness in connection with the mysterious slaying of Frederick Schneider, was taken today, when her counsel, James F. Donnelly, obtained a writ of habeas corpus for the release of his client from jail. The writ is returnable Friday. Donnelly declared he had new information which conclusively proves that Mrs. Buzzi had nothing to do with the murder.

JUGGLER SHOWS NEW TRICKS AT KEITH'S

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

THERE is always one distinctive mark by which you can tell the imported performer in vaudeville from his talented American brother. He will insist upon waving the Stars and Stripes, finally entwining them with the colors of his native land.

It was that way at B. F. Keith's yesterday, where Enrico Rastelli, lately from all over Europe, caught his first glimpse of an American audience and listened for the applause that must have seemed a long time arriving at its proper volume.

Rastelli is a juggler who has been proclaimed the old World's best bet in tossing tennis balls, golf balls and cannon balls. His masterpiece run to spherical list just to show that any old thing thrown carelessly into the air will fall gracefully into his hands be played with short sticks and long poles with the same result.

FURNISHES THRILLS.

Rastelli's debut on these strange but friendly shores followed a rough passage that ended barely forty-eight hours ago, but it gave him time to order a new American flag as a decoration for his really sensational act.

It was a pretty good flag, too, and needed only four or five more stripes to make it perfect. This young artist from Italy has the most responsive neck and shoulders ever exhibited in vaudeville and with them he furnished most of the two spots of thrills.

Whatever test of balancing or juggling he might be engaged upon for the moment was made secondary by the way a large ruby her ball rolled around his shoulders, chased itself to the top of his fuzzy haired head and then rolled back to a secure resting place in the region of his neckband.

That the first day's audience was helpless in the demonstration of appreciation was undoubtedly due to the novelty of Rastelli's act. It began in such a matter of fact style that its marvelous complications were well on their way to an end before the audience sensed its bewildering achievement. Before he had finished, however, Rastelli convinced you that he will enter a prosperous American career.

VALENTINO'S WIFE IN PLAY.

Mrs. Rodolph Valentino, the original Mrs. Rodolph, if you please, peeped at you from behind an Edgar Allen Woolf sketch called "A Regular Girl." She had already done very well in pictures and is also accredited with being something of a real actress as well. In this latter respect she was not so convincing, though we may be admitted in all fairness that there was little for her to do except appear before the multitude and show what a nice looking girl the popular Valentino lost during his quest for fame. The young lady is a striking looking brunette, who still wears her hair in the bobbed fashion of the day.

There was something of real joy in the fifteen minutes Scella Mayhew sang to you and chatted informately about things in general and her own troubles in particular. There was a twinkle in her eye that carried you back to the good old days when she held the musical comedy stage. Her latest effort was one for vocal syncopation or not you're bound to like Miss Mayhew.

Oh, yes, there were other things on the bill—many other novelties, ranging from the trained bears of Emilie Lea Belmont, and the animal opera of Bezalian and White, to Aesop's Fables in picture form.

THIRD FLOOR BACK AT ST. JAMES

"The Passing of the Third Floor Back," a drama that has toured the country, gave Walter Gilmes of the Boston Stock Company his supreme opportunity of the season to show his worth.

The Hollis was filled to capacity and the "S. R. O." sign went out early on the opening night.

The drama was shown in Boston twelve years ago and since that time has been presented in nearly every city of appreciable size in the United States. The Boston Stock Company scored a bullseye when they decided to offer it, judging from the arresting that rewarded the performers.

Walter Gilbert as "The Stranger" was given a feature role considerably out of the ordinary run of stock requisites. And he lived up to the role, needless to say. Adelyn Bushnell as "Sharkie" was the ever-loveable girl that has won her deep affection in Boston hearts since she joined the Boston Stock Company early this season.

And as usual, the Pettie Symphony Orchestra, directed by Charles Hecht, poured another success with the musical program. This is one feature of the St. James that accounts for the large number of "season seats."

SPIRITED BILL AT ORPHEUM

It is easy to understand why Theodore Kosloff rewards entitled him shown yesterday at Loew's Orpheum, won the first prize of $10,000 in the Kosloff rewards entitled him Russian ballet competition.

This is an all-around produce ion. In many dramatic in theme, well cast and brilliantly directed. Mme. Kosloff herself, who attracted considerable attention for his fine work in "The Prisoner of Zenda," has the leading role.

Easterner, who undergoes a spiritual regeneration and learns the meaning of happiness through love. Valeska Moore lends distinction by her remarkable characterization of the part Mme. of a bright mother and bonds.

The vaudeville section was unusually excellent, being topped by Lydell Davis, a popular musical comedy favorite, and assisted by Jimmy Reddy Hick. Next in to o n e "Stolen Sweets," a musical confection with a bevy of pulchritudinous girlies. Other performers included Charles and Cecil McNaughton, two boys of smiles, tunes and pep, Val Ola, offering Dance Varieties, and La France Brothers.

Theodore Kosloff was seen also in his latest production "Day Dreams."

"WHITE FLOWER" AT LOEW'S STATE

Betty Compson in "The White Flower" and a photo-adaptation by Monte of "The Famous Mrs. Fair," the popular stage success, was responsible for an overflow gathering of motion picture fans at Loew's State Theatre yesterday. Miss Compson joins the ranks of a young half-American half-Hawaiian who is in love with a young American, the principle king of the island. Miss Compson is accorded splendid support. The picturization of "The Famous Mrs. Fair" has been carried out with remarkable fidelity and in it Fred Niblo, the director, has accomplished perhaps the best work of his career. There were also news and comedy reels.

'BRASS' SHOWS PITFALLS OF DIVORCE

The screen version of Charles G Norris' justly famed novel "Brass" had its world's premiere at the Park Theatre last night. The production is made by the Warner Brothers and is directed by Sidney Franklin.

And a big cast of screen actors, many of whom are classed as stars, the work of Monty Blue and Marie Prevost stands out unmistakably. "Brass" shows the pitfalls of a mismated couple. Marriage, poverty, warring temperaments, frivolity, infidelity and divorce . . . The picture runs the gamut of the whole list.

DOMESTIC TRAGEDY.

Then comes the change caused by acquisition of wealth. But does it bring happiness? The picture shows it does not. The story is the domestic tragedy of Philip Baldwin and his young wife, the characters portrayed by Mr. Blue and Miss Prevost.

Miss Prevost makes the wife a frivolous, pleasure-loving woman and when a child is born to the couple she rebels against the continued genteel poverty and seeks redress through the medium of the divorce courts.

PREACHES SERMON.

"Brass" preaches a sermon more powerful than thousands that are delivered from the pulpits every Sunday. It cannot fail to bring home to those who witness the picture the evils and pitfalls of divorce. It is a play that makes for better comradeship and better understanding between husband and wife and one that could well better homes of the real American type.

Mr. Franklin's work in directing the characters is beyond praise.

"Brass" should have no difficulty in filling the Park Theatre at every performance during its run here.

Coming Plays

"It Is the Law," a stirring melodrama is announced as the attraction at the Wilbur next week.

* * *

"Greenwich Village Follies," fresh from a long engagement in New York, will move into the Shubert next Monday.

"Spite Corner" will be the attraction at the St. James Theatre next week. It will be seen for the first time in Boston.

* * *

William Courtenay in "Her Temporary Husband" will occupy the Arlington Theatre stage next week.

"MIMIC WORLD" RIOT OF JOY

Youth with all its dash, vivacity and charm, in the person of Cuni and Pavanporti's "Mimic World," which delighted matinee and evening audiences at the Gayety Theatre yesterday.

Headed by Jamie Coughlin, the company and chorus of youths and maidens—they say not one of them is more than twenty-one years old—lent the audiences laughing at bright and clever comedy or soulfully entertained with specialties, including some of the snappiest dancing that ever set notes a-tinkling.

Jamie Coughlan is assisted by Harry Peterson and Harry Morris, both natural comedians. Heinz Booth, the prima donna, has an exquisite voice and rare personal charm, and Estelle Powers, who is billed as the "Gay Girl of Jazz Song land," certainly put joy and jazz in to the show.

FAMOUS ORCHESTRA AT STATE BALLROOM

An overflow gathering of dancers followed McEnelly's Singing Orchestra last night at the State Theatre ballroom, where this leader and his accomplished musicians gave a long series of popular dance compositions. The engagement will be for two weeks and will include a new program every night.

This signalizes the first metropolitan appearance of this famous orchestra since their record breaking engagement here, when they served as headliners at Keith's Theatre. The State Theatre ballroom, with its many novel features and tremendous capacity, presents an alluring picture to lovers of dancing.

GIFT FOR GOV. COX BY "THE FOOL" COMPANY

Governor and Mrs. Channing Cox appeared on the stage of the Selwyn Theatre last evening as guests of honor at the opening performance of "The Fool," and the management of the Selwyn Theatre.

Both the Governor and Mrs. Cox were greeted with cheers after Mr. Andrea Carlisle, leading lady of the company, Mrs. Cox received a beautiful bouquet of flowers and Governor was given a copy of the book, "The Fool," containing autographs of each member of the company. A presentation was made at the close of the third act.

CHARLESTOWN MAN DROPS DEAD

George H. Bredel, fifty-two years old, died suddenly on the coal wharf at No. 161 Medford street, Charlestown. Bredel, a quarter of a century ago, was well known in athletic circles in the "Neck section," and had been active in June 17 celebration in that district. He resided on Marshall place, Charlestown. Death was due, the police say, to natural causes.

DEBORA THORNTON

ARLINGTON GETS BROADWAY STAR

In another week a change of policy will go into effect at the Arlington Theatre that will bring that playhouse back into the family of theatres of the first class with established Broadway productions and a two-dollar scale.

The first bid for public favor under this arrangement will be made next Monday, when William Courtenay will be seen in the Arlington Square district in "Her Temporary Husband," a comedy that has enjoyed extensive popularity in other large cities, but which has been denied a Boston showing up to this time.

Mr. Courtenay is not a stranger to local playgoers—indeed, he is very well known and favorably regarded in those regards. Besides his highly distinguishing mark in his several local appearances was his engagement at the Plymouth a few seasons ago in "Under Cover," in which he broke the Boston record for the attract ance, covering twenty-seven consecutive weeks. This record has never been equaled.

In "Her Temporary Husband" Mr. Courtenay will be supported by Virginia Hammond, George Hamond, Henry Mortimer, Betty Linley and Jack Paulton.

GAY MOMENTS IN "HIPPITY HOP"

"Hippity Hop," which opened at Waldron's Casino yesterday, is an unusually gay, frolicsome and colorful show, even for these days of advanced burlesque. Vaudeville and dramatic moving pictures complete the three-in-one pentamous program.

Heading the "Hippity Hoppers" are MacAllister and Shannon, laughable known as the "Song and Story of It," on account of the amazing contrast in their sizes. Their antics kept the audience roaring. "Shorty" MacAllister's slide down the long stairway and his absurdities in the photograph gallery, and the really amusing comedy offered by Harry Shannon, were high spots of fun.

The company is strong in numbers as well as talent, including fifty entertainers. The chorus is what is should be young, pretty, snappy and dancing and singing with life and gaiety.

Plays That Remain

COLONIAL—Ed Wynn in "The Perfect Fool." Musical revue with a lot of girls and Mr. Wynn in his own spirited drolleries.

MAJESTIC—Gertrude Hoffmann in "Hello, Everybody!" Dancing-ministrel and roadway—by Mme. Hoffmann, and many other features.

WILBUR—"Listening In," a comedy with a ghostly touch that sends chills down your spine. Mysterious but very high humored.

HOLLIS—"Lightnin'," the play that is breaking all theatrical records. Best described as an amusing American comedy.

SHUBERT—"Elsie," the musical play that upset Chicago and is now performing the same job here. This is the last week.

PLYMOUTH—"Just Married," with Vivian Martin and Lynne Overman. Something in farce that will overturn your dignity.

SELWYN—"The Fool," a play by Channing Pollock that holds interest for all classes of playgoers. The Golden Rule made in drama.

TREMONT TEMPLE—"The Third Alarm," a sensational photoplay that glorifies the brave firemen and provides a rip-roaring thrill

NEW MUSICAL SHOW AT THE ARLINGTON

"The Girl From Up There," shown at the Arlington Theatre last night, is a creditable play, of the light and merry sort. Harlan Briggs is the librettist, author of the book, composer and principal comedian. There is a sparkling wit in the lines, together with a fund of melody. Every number has a swing and go, while the lyrics are neatly turned and humorous. The songs have a haunting melody and are well sung by Mr. Briggs, Debora Thornton, Fred Palmer, Viola Scott and William Milne. The chorus is well worth gazing upon and appears in many spectacular effects.

Harlan Briggs and Miss Thornton made the greatest individual hits, but he proved himself a real comedian. Viola Scott is wholly charming and her voice is pleasing. Fred Palmer and William Milne are equally delightful and, like Mr. Briggs, can sing and dance.

The scenes of the play are laid in Mexico and permit handsome costumes, both for the principals and the chorus. The piece has some thing of a plot, but if it had lacked that quality no great sense of loss would have been felt. The chorus was gorgeously gowned in the more important periods of the action.

"The Girl From Up There" should enjoy a happy week at the Arlington.

"HEART OF WETONA" AT THE SOMERVILLE

"The Heart of Wetona" was produced yesterday by the Somerville Players with exceptional skill and care. This play originally brought Lenora Ulrich to the top of her profession. It is a distinctly American play, with the scenes at a United States army post in the Southwest. The work of the leading members of Mr. McArdle's organization was appreciated by two audiences yesterday. Particular mention is due Harry Bond, Ann Hamilton, Frank Thomas and Joseph Granby for their efforts in difficult roles.

OTIS SKINNER SCORES HIT AT TREMONT

Better than any sermon.

Search the dictionary through from end to end and you can find no words that better describe "Mister Antonio," by Booth Tarkington, in which Otis Skinner is starring at the Tremont Theatre this week.

All of the mercenary of the "very good" people, who are ready to damn the weak and fallen, is brought out in its true light by Otis Skinner, who, as Mister Antonio, a mere Italian hurdy-gurdy man, portrays one of the most lovable characters on the stage.

The play, written for Mr. Skinner, is a simple little story of the mayor of a small town, who falls into the hands of the women of the street in New York. He fails to the very bottom and wakes up after a night of drunkenness to find that he has been robbed of money, clothes—everything. As he is about to be thrown out into the street by a bartender he is saved by Mister Antonio, the humble hurdy-gurdy man.

Truly this is a greater performance that Mr. Skinner gave. Marion Warning Manley, as June Ramsey, the servant girl, was delightful. Joseph Brennan, the mayor, interpreted the part admirably. Robert Harrison as Joe, the insane partner of Mister Antonio, did a splendid work, and Mary Mallon, as Pearl, a woman of questionable character, was so natural that she seemed to have dropped onto the stage from the very locality in which she was supposed to have lived.

That the audience appreciated Mr. Skinner's work and his play was evidenced by the number of curtain calls. A great actor in a great play is all that can be said of Otis Skinner in "Mister Antonio." The play was here several seasons ago. It should come again.

HUSBAND TRIED TO KILL HER, SAYS WIFE

Brockton, March 6.—The fact that ess in her home at Holbrook had been shut off from the multi saved her life on one occasion when she was a victim of her husband's cruelty, Mrs. Charles L. Moore told Judge Chamberlain in Probate Court.

Moore knocked her to the floor, choked her, dragged her by the hair to a small room, turned on a gas cock and left her, she said. He did not know that the gas had been turned off, was her belief. She was granted a decree and permission to resume her maiden name, Lillian R. Morse.

"Slandered"

MISS EDITH DAY

New York, March 6.—Edith Day, musical comedy star, was scheduled to appear in West Side Court today to prosecute charges of criminal slander against C. F. Zittel, publisher of Zit's Weekly newspaper, and Paul Swelhart, managing editor. In the complaint Miss Day characterizes as false and malicious an article in Zit's last issue which linked her name with that of Robert Warwick, and intimated he had succeeded Pat Somerset in her affections.

Mr. Warwick, widely known as a dramatic and motion picture star, is in Asheville, N. C., recuperating from pneumonia. In a letter to Miss Day he declared he has never met her.

WORLD REVOLT PREDICTED BY LENINE

By International News Service

Moscow, March 6.—"The whole world is passing into a movement which will give birth eventually to universal revolution, but we have to consider the fact that the outside world, hostile to us, has been divided into two militaristic and capitalistic camps," declared Nicolai Lenine, head of the Soviet government, in a statement today.

The statement was issued primarily in support of the proposal to give wider powers to the Committee of Workers and Peasants.

"The western capitalistic powers," said the statement, "are doing their utmost, partly consciously and partly automatically, to push us backward. They would employ internal conflicts in their own countries in an effort to destroy the Socialist movement.

"International relations have become such one country is enslaved by its conquerors, notably Germany. The western powers are making use of their victory to wring further concessions from the classes that were already oppressed. They are attempting to postpone the general revolution.

"In order to secure our existence until the next military conflict between the counter-revolutionary west and the revolutionary and nationalistic east it is necessary for the peoples in the east to gain time.

"We must strive to build up our Russian block in which the working class holds the leadership. But in order to build up the nation, there must be discipline. The leaders must have power to order and execute constructive work."

Lenine called attention to increasing in strength in the Eastern countries. But at the same time he urged that "the power of the workers be preserved in Russia and peasant leadership be cherished."

Lenine made "reference to Germany, saying that it was the "capitalist country which was being picked by other capitalistic powers."

THE ENEMIES OF WOMEN By BLASCO IBANEZ

A Russian Prince of Fabulous Wealth and Some Friends Bind Themselves to Bar All Women From Lives

THE STORY TO DATE.

Prince Michael Fedor, a Russian of fabulous wealth, is at Monte Carlo while the Great War is on. With him is his friend, Atilio Castro, and other acquaintances. He announces, to the amazement of his hearers, that he is ruined. The Prince proposes that Castro and a few of their friends live together with the proviso that no women shall enter their lives. They will be known as "The Enemies of Women." Castro tells the Prince he has seen the Duchess de Delille. She calls at the Villa Sirena and asks the Prince to finance her gambling system. He refuses, but grows interested in her, and later calls at her home where she tells him she has a son in the war. Michael tries to make love to her but she resists.

By Vicente Blasco Ibanez, Author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and other Novels of World Renown

REPENTING her act, she had stepped back, retreating a few steps. She was standing in the doorway, ready to continue her flight, mechanically straightening her hair, and drying her tears, as a deep blush spread over her features.

"I didn't know what I was doing!" she murmured. "Forgive me. I was so grateful to learn that you wanted to help me!

"Let's go," she commanded gravely. "The servants will soon be coming back from mass. I shouldn't like to have them find us here, in my bedroom. They might think——"

Greatly Puzzled

Calming down, Lubimoff noted the unconscious modesty and the evident uneasiness with which she said this. He suddenly recalled the woman of the "study" on the Avenue du Bois and her daring theories. Really was it the same person?

As they went downstairs and out to the gate, she turned her head to him and laughed a little teasing laugh—as though she had read his thoughts.

"Come and see me—again," she said in a soft voice.

"Come and see me again," Alicia urged in that soft voice of hers. But Prince Michael, more surprised by far at the unwonted passions which this amazing woman had roused in him than at any thing she could possibly have told him of herself, went quietly away, making no answer, giving no promise of return.

The next few hours the Prince spent pensive and silent. So many new things had come up all at once! First, there had been the astounding revelation that madcap Alicia, Duchess de Delille was the mother of a son of whose existence none had ever dreamed—of whom Michael himself would never have heard had not Alicia, worried over her boy's privations as a German prisoner of war, chosen to confide her story. Michael found it hard enough to believe that this untamable creature of love could be a mother. But the crowning surprise of all had been what he had felt within himself—the resurrection of his former being, his new full under the domination of the flesh, and the double lashing his nervous system had received from the perfume of Alicia's soft linen and the imprint of her lips on his brow.

Prince Michael is greeted, as he enters the Monte Carlo Casino after his long absence

A Venus Dolorosa

But Michael wished to forget this and to remember Alicia only as he had seen her in the hotel room, her eyes wide with grief, tears like pearls hanging from the lids—tragically beautiful, like an image of the Virgin with the body of the crucified Son of her knees. Mater Dolorosa.

But, within, the Prince there seemed to be another person protesting with cold clearsightedness against this image. Alicia was not the Mother of Sorrows. A mother never abandons her son. She renounces all the vanities of this world for him. She gives up her present and her future, as though she had no other life than that of her son, part of her own flesh. All his life she gives him the milk of her breast. Moment by moment she follows his development, fighting with illness, laughing at danger. To love him she does not have to wait for him to grow to the full splendor of adolescence. Whereas, Alicia—

She was the Venus Dolorosa. Even in the moments of deepest despair she maintained her beauty, and her grief seemed a new means of seduction. She was a mother, but she continued to be a woman, that terrible, destructive woman whom the Prince had always hated. Look out, Michael! But with a smile of superiority he replied inwardly to this reflection.

"I am fond of her, but only as a friend," he reassured himself, and planned to put out of mind the troubling visions of Alicia by a comfortable talk with one or another of the Enemies of Women. But none of them was to be found anywhere about Villa Sirena. All of them—Castro, Spadoni, Novos, even the Colonel—had gone away.

Michael recalled the splendid scheme of life he had worked out a few months before for the Enemies of Women. A community of lay brothers shut off from the world in a spot like paradise; music, astronomy, pleasant conversations, wholesome work. And now the monks were running away on all sorts of pretexts, and he, who was their head, also felt the unexplainable need of following their example. Even the Colonel, the faithful admirer of that estate which he had considered the best work of his life, seemed to suffer from the same feverish desire to get away.

Toward the City

To escape the tediousness of a solitary afternoon at Villa Sirena, Michael put on his hat and overcoat and started out. Some power beyond his comprehension seemed to impel him toward Monte Carlo. He walked through the gardens, turning away from the villa.

Thus deserted, the edifice appeared larger, and its frowning and angry silence seemed to be asking him why anybody had ever been such a fool as to waste so much good material on a box like that.

Yet, along the near-by road, street-cars and carriges were gliding. Hotels with people from the city who were coming for a glimpse of the smiling sea, of a green and rosy hill, or a bright blue afforded a panoramic view. And he, the owner of the famous gardens of Villa Sirena, was deserting all this beauty to go to a city from which the rest were trying to escape.

Near the gate he turned to contemplate his beautiful domain as if to beg its pardon. There was a silence like that surrounding an enchanted palace. The gardens seemed asleep like dream woods.

Michael felt he found himself in front of the Casino, had preferred not to ask himself where he was going. There he saw two currents of people coming from opposite directions, meeting and mingling, as they both mounted a short winding stairway divided by three red carpets.

On one side, people were arriving who had just come by train; on the other, those who had been gathered in by all the streets and all the towns on the Riviera from Nice to Monte Carlo.

Many Strange People

Near the entrance of the concert hall, Michael caught sight of a man with gray hair that parted from the forehead to the nape of the neck and brushed forward, mingling with his side whiskers, in an Austrian fashion. It was the Colonel, come to listen to the celebrated tenor who was luring the crowd from its gambling. But the Colonel was not alone. Michael saw him bend toward a girl with curly hair and a string of large amber beads. Oh, the traitor! There was no doubt about it. It must have been the gardener's daughter!

When the singing-gale had retired to the wings of the stage the Colonel offered his protege a box of candy. Caramels in war time! An extravagance, indeed, that only a lover could allow himself!

Then the Prince forced his way through a motionless, compact group of wounded officers—French, Russian, Australian, and English—packed about the entrance to the gaming rooms. Mingled with them were nurses of various types, some with nun-like veils and with a delicate appearance; others with a masculine look, having necklines and uniforms with gold buttons, without any other feminine appearing to escape.

Some who were older and had short hair, red faces and spectacled spectacles, had to be examined closely before one could be convinced from their hybrid appearance that they were women.

They crowded together in front of the three double curtains leading to the gambling rooms. Those who belonged in no way to the army or navy of any nation whatsoever were not allowed to pass this limit. Soldiers could only enter the Casino. And those in them who in their far-off countries had often heard of Monte Carlo, now finding themselves there by chance, were crowding at the curtains with childish curiosity, admiring for an instant, as the draperies rapidly opened and closed, the vision of gilded rooms. Afterward they would withdraw, giving up their places to other comrades. At last they could say they knew all about Monte Carlo.

The employees in their black frock coats opened one of the curtains, greeting the Prince as though he were an old acquaintance. It was the first time he had entered the gaming rooms since his return to Villa Sirena, after his years of exiling on the Gaviota. It seemed to him as though here in the Casino he had awakened miraculously into the world of things before the war.

The Prince Pauses

Everything that was afflicting humanity remained on the other side of the door, just as the action of a drama continues on the stage of the theatre which we leave behind us.

He even found a certain attractiveness in the architecture of these drawing-rooms whose familiarity revealed the pleasanter days of his life, and in the rotunda, where all the other rooms of the Casino converge into one large room which seems to be prolonged under the dividing archways to its farthest ends of the building. Prince Michael felt a longing to go

SUN'S HEAT ON EARTH

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

"The earth, being a cold body, derives its heat from the sun's rays. We are told that the sun is three million miles nearer the earth on the first of January than on the first of July. This being so, how do you account for the fact that it is colder in Winter than in Summer?"—T. J. C.

THE earth, as a whole, gets more heat from the sun on the first of January than on the first of July, because it is nearer the sun in January than in July.

But in January the surface of that hemisphere of the earth where we live is turned much more away from the sun than it is in July, and this causes the rays of the sun to be less effective in heating the surface than when they descend upon it more nearly perpendicular, as they do in July. This difference in the heating power of the sun's rays is more than sufficient to counterbalance the increase of heat due to the sun's greater nearness in Winter.

Suppose you have a window facing South. If you haven't such a window you can easily make it substitute for it. Near the outer edge of the side-casing of the window stick in a stout pin, standing straight up on the casing. At noon notice the sloping shadow of the pin and carve a notch there, and, with a lead pencil, mark its line across the casing.

About a week later do the same thing, and you will find that the slope of the line of shadow has become steeper. Continue to mark the shadow, say, once a week. You will get a series of sloping lines, each successive one increasing in steepness until the 22nd of June.

Now, of course, what you really measure is the changing altitude of the sun, as it first increases while the sun is getting higher in the sky, and then decreases when the sun is apparently going southward again. The great difference between the Summer and the Winter slope of the shadow line will impress upon your mind the reasonableness of the statement that the change of 47 degrees in the sun's altitude has a greater effect upon the temperature than does the change of 3,000,000 miles in its distance from the earth.

DAILY HOROSCOPE

Mary Blake Says:

Today Lucky If You Do Not DISPUTE.

EXCELLENT influences prevail today for business, social and intellectual matters. It is well to avoid any legal entanglements; this advice could be well borne in mind every day of the year, but it is especially necessary under the exceptional conditions that prevail today to cut out all appeals to law.

Any business transacted by you today which does not involve anything of a disputed character will undoubtedly yield good results.

The stars are equally good for all pursuits of an intellectual nature. If you are undergoing an examination in any branch of learning, the prospects are that you will be able to answer all questions put you in a manner calculated to gain the highest praise.

In social affairs today, if you have any on hand, you will not experience any difficulty in making yourself extremely popular, and you will not say those things which had better been left unsaid, nor do those things which had better been left undone.

Peggy Discovers a Queer Little Family

PEGGY looked around at the several mounds of earth, then ran up to inspect the nearest one. All the dirt that had been burrowed out had been piled high at the entrance, which was a hole about a foot and a half wide.

"I wonder who lives here," Peggy mused, and patted her foot softly on the ground three times.

Out of the hole came a funny, long head. Peggy stepped back quickly.

"I'm Glad to Meet You."

"Well, why did you rap at my door if you're afraid?" asked a squeaky voice. "It sounded like Squeedee's knock. That's how I came to answer you. What can I do for you?"

"Nothing at all, little friend," replied Peggy. "I just saw your home in passing, and wondered who lived there. I've never seen those queer mounds before."

"Oh, then you don't live here in Florida, do you?" inquired the owner of the mound house. "Just visiting?"

"Yes," replied Peggy. "This is my first trip to Florida, and I want to meet and know its little people."

"Then I'm glad to meet you," drawled the owner of the mound house, and he crawled out and held up his claw to shake. "I'm Daddy Go, how-turtle."

"My, but you're a big turtle!" exclaimed Peggy. His shell was at least fifteen inches long, and his legs, head and tail, which stuck out from under it were quite heavy and strong. "I've never seen a turtle as large as you are."

"And we're not nearly as large as some," said Daddy Gopher-turtle. "If this is your first trip down here, maybe you'd like to peek in and meet my wife. That's one thing you will find.

We gopher-turtles live in pairs. I'd call "the Missus" out—but she's busy with her eggs. Then, too, your daytime is our night, you know, and so she may be asleep."

"Indeed, I'm not asleep," called a cheery voice from the inside of the hole. "I'm wide awake. Come right in."

Peggy grew tiny as if by magic, then she and Daddy Gopher-turtle went down to the long hall-way. To Peggy it seemed at least four feet down to the main room, which was quite large.

Here Mrs. Gopher-turtle showed Peggy her lovely eggs. They were about the size of Peggy's pigeon eggs she had at home.

"I'm glad you weren't a native," laughed Mama Gopher-turtle, "for they usually come to rob us. They steal our eggs and eat our flesh when they can catch us. That's why we roam at night and sleep in the daytime. It rained last evening, so Daddy wouldn't go out. I got so hungry he was just about to go in search of food when you rapped. It sounded like Squeedee's knock."

"I'm glad you answered me," laughed Peggy, "for I'm always glad to know you little woodland people. As I came through the garden I gathered some radishes and a carrot, for I felt sure I'd meet someone that liked them. And Peggy emptied her pocketful of goodies on Mama Gopher-turtle's table.

My, but they were happy over these things, and Mama Gopher-turtle fixed up a tiny dinner. They were just about to sit down to eat when Peggy heard her mother calling.

And bidding her new friends good-by and promising to call again some day soon, she found herself grown big again and hurried home.

BITS OF WISDOM

An easy ways are downhill, although you may not notice it until you try to climb back.

* * *

Experience is what a wise man gets at the expense of others, and a fool at his own.

* * *

The man who is really indispensable is not the one who is inflated with his own importance, but the one who aims to get his task rightly done so that there can be neither fault nor cause for fault.

ANECDOTES OF FAMOUS

Operatic singers are proverbially credited with being whimsical and self-willed. They are fond of having their own way, and are not easily persuaded to recant when they have been counted saying the thing that is not. But the celebrated Madame Cuzzoni, who sang in many of Handel's operas, did on one occasion, quite literally recant.

Madame Cuzzoni had refused, during a rehearsal, to sing a certain air. It was not the first time that she had given trouble in this way. Handel, who was not one of the best-tempered men, suddenly lost patience and exploded. Flinging himself on the wretched woman, he shook her like a rat.

"Ah," he cried, "I always know—shake!—you were a very devil—shake!—and I shall now let you know—shake!—that I am Beelzebub, the prince of de devils!" (shake, shake, shake)

He then dragged her to the open window, and was on the point of pitching her into the street, when she, quite literally, recanted.

This Will Ward Off And Break Up Colds

Just a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin removes the congestion

THE two ailments that people generally regard as of the least importance are in reality the cause of most serious illnesses and of the greatest proportion of deaths.

They are constipation and common colds. Many doctors now believe that colds, headache, touch of malaria will cause constipation. But constipation being their cause, the remedy is to avoid colds is to keep up your vitality. You usually catch cold in the winter if your vitality is run down. Therefore in cold weather exercise more; eat more fatty foods; drink four to six glasses of water a day; keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

You are also less liable to colds if your system is free from the intestinal poisons of constipation, so empty the bowels regularly with a plain vegetable laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a truly trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

At the first sign of a cold, at the first sneeze or symptoms, take a teaspoonful of Syrup Pepsin and the congestion will be gone in a few hours. Don't wait until the cold has a grip on you. Mr. Henry Dean, Jr., of Rochester, N. Y., cured a stubborn cold in just that way, and Mrs. Alice Corbbrey of Haskell, Okla., uses it effectively for all the small ills of her family, such as colds, sick headaches, biliousness, headaches, dizziness, and to break up fevers and colds.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientific blending of a pound of Egyptian senna with pleasant-tasting aromatics. It is safe to give to babies and children like it. Before you again resort to cold remedies containing narcotics try a teaspoonful of Syrup Pepsin. Any druggist will supply you, and the cost is less than a cent a dose.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

In your family you probably have one member who has developed more brains and attained greater position and power and influence than the other members.

The same thing has been taking place in many industries. Some one individual or some one corporation has been coming to the front and acquiring dominating place and power.

And when this happens, the public usually becomes critical, even suspicious, concerning how this dominating power is used. In not a few instances there have been governmental investigations.

* * *

The latest, that conducted by Senator La Follette, has brought forth sweeping charges against the practices of the Standard Oil Company. They are charged with practically every crime on the business calendar—except, perhaps, not paying their bills.

And of course, the inevitable recommendation is one more law. That is the favorite panacea for every ill—although, like most panaceas, this one doesn't always work.

Without attempting today to discuss the pros and cons of La Follette's allegations against Standard Oil, it may be interesting to take note of the industrial evolution which has been under way this century.

* * *

Take steel. The iron and steel industry has been virtually dominated for twenty years by Judge Gary and the United States Steel Corporation. He and it have set the pace in the matter of prices and also in the matter of wages. In short, Judge Gary has been the big boss of the whole steel industry. Of course he and his corporation were dragged into court by the government, without result.

* * *

The woolen industry has had its William M. Wood and its American Woolen Company, often called the woolen trust. Mr. Wood and American Woolen have filled almost exactly the same role in the woolen industry as Judge Gary and the Steel Corporation have filled in the iron and steel industry. Other manufacturers have looked to them as pacemakers. Few woolen mills venture to place prices on their new season's lines until the dominating company has acted.

* * *

Quite recently Mr. Wood became a power in the cotton goods field by taking hold of the Consolidated Textile Corporation, and the trade believes that his ambition is to attain the same place in cottons as he has long held in woolens.

* * *

At this moment the process here discussed is going on very actively in the copper industry. Indeed, it is becoming by far the most important figure in the copper world. He is scrambling for control of Anaconda, the largest copper producing company in America, by control of various other large properties in this country, while only a few weeks ago he took over his whole big Chile Copper, reputedly the largest copper property ever tanned.

Not only so, but Mr. Ryan is now the one towering figure in the brass industry. For many years Charles F. Brooker was the brass baron through his control of the American Brass Company.

The late J. P. Morgan was universally recognized as the commander-in-chief of America's financial forces. And the truth is that the house of Morgan has bigger and more influential today than it was during his regime.

* * *

In the rubber industry we had Colonel Colt and the United States Rubber Company. At the helm of this gigantic enterprise today is a broader and bolder man than was Colonel Colt, namely, Charles B. Seger.

Henry Ford, of course, completely dominates the lowest-priced automobile industry, and has done so for more than a dozen years.

General Motors is the conspicuous giant of the rest of the automobile world.

The Guggenheims have been the unmatched leaders in the smelting industry.

William H. Nichols, first with his General Chemical Company and now with his Allied Chemical Corporation has been the Napoleon of the heavy chemical industry.

James B. Duke for many years has been hailed as the tobacco king of America, and at one stage he crossed the Atlantic and became the greatest tobacco power in Europe.

E. T. Bedford and his Corn Products Refining Company have been recognized in the trade as being in a class by themselves.

In wire making, Daniel G. Reid's American can Company has been the undisputed colossus.

The late Horace Havemeyer created the "sugar trust," the American Sugar and Refining Company, which is still the giant of the sugar industry.

* * *

And so one could go on citing instances of this evolution. It is nothing more than the world-old law of the survival of the fittest, at work under modern industrial conditions. Brains will tell.

* * *

What should be done, what can be done by the public to meet this changing condition is a problem likely to engage much attention in coming years.

KENYA INDIANS APPEAL TO BRITAIN

Delhi, India, March 6.—The Indian Council of State, after animated discussion, has adopted Srinivasa Sastri's resolution demanding equal rights of citizenship for Indians in Kenya, and asking that they be protected against violence at the hands of Europeans. The resolution also urges that no further restrictions be placed on immigration into Kenya from India.

Sastri maintains that Indians at present enjoy only partial fulfillment of an equal rights program. He appeals to Great Britain not to lose friends in India by leaving Kenyan Indians to the mercy of the Europeans.

A decision was reached to urge Lord Peel, Secretary of State for India, to obtain for Indians in Kenya an opportunity to present their case.

At a congress of Europeans in Kenya a week ago a resolution was adopted committing the anti-Indian movement to a policy of restraint pending the outcome of a mission to the Home Office in London to seek a settlement of the Kenya race problem. The Congress decided to reserve freedom to resort to "direct action" in the event of a breakdown of the negotiations.

Wins Injury Suit

MARGARET McGRATH

Fifteen-year-old Somerville girl hurt by auto truck who gets $12,000 damages.

$12,000 AWARD TO GIRL UPHELD BY FULL BENCH

Margaret McGrath of Somerville, fifteen years old, retains a $12,000 verdict against Reuben A. Pash, ice cream manufacturer, secured for personal injuries from a Suffolk Jury before Judge Callahan, by a decision of the full bench of the Supreme Court.

The original verdict was for $16,000. Judge Callahan cut it to $12,000. The full court overruled the defendant's exceptions. The case was argued before the full court by Peter J. Donaghue and Harold R. Donaghue, as counsel for the injured girl, and by William Flaherty, as counsel for the defendant.

The girl was injured at Parker and Cambridge streets, Charlestown, on September 4, 1920, by a motor truck of the defendant, which was proceeding very fast and in a zigzag manner as it came around the corner. The driver was taken on two girls as passengers for the ride, the evidence showed, and then drove the truck at a speed of thirty or forty miles an hour for a time. The truck dragged the injured girl fifteen feet and then overturned on her.

Members of the selling force acted as models and the features of each garment were explained to the audience in a printed program and by the store's buyers.

Authentic modes scheduled for Spring popularity, in the new shades of Lanvin green, desert sand, grey stone, ramie and cobweb, were shown. Costumes exhibited ranged from afternoon frocks to bathing suits. The committee directing the show was headed by J. K. Berne, vice-president of the company, assisted by Jennie O'Callachan, Persis A. Lothrop, Joseph Zimmerman, Fred Waldo and M. R. O'Connell. Before the show a buffet was served in the store restaurant.

STANDARD OIL POOH-POOHS $1 GASOLINE

New York, March 6.—(By International News Service).—Declaring the government committee investigating the price of gasoline "actually reached up in the air and brought down a figure," W. C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, today denied there was any likelihood of gasoline prices reaching the $1 per gallon mark in the near future.

"Gasoline is no more likely to reach a price of $1 a gallon than it is $5," Teagle said. "The La Follette report might as well have read $5 or $1. They did not do that, because anyone could see that would be absurd.

"Other substitutes can be made at thirty cents a gallon and are being made to compete with oil. Supply and demand fluctuate so in this business that no man can say exactly what will happen, but the probability the price will not go up at all."

Teagle asserted that the La Follette report was inspired by politics.

BOSTON AMERICAN

1 Whiskey Bottle, 1 Child

1 Small Bed in the Hospital

THIS IS EUGENE JOURNES. STRONG AND WELL UNTIL HE MET THE MAN WHO HAD DRUNK THE WHISKEY. HE WILL NEVER WALK AGAIN, EXCEPT AS A CRIPPLE

This picture shows you what an automobile, plus a bottle of whiskey and a man drunk, can do to a small boy. Here is part of the letter that comes with the photograph:

February 12, 1923.

Editor Boston American:

It occurred to us here at the Middlesex General Hospital of New Brunswick, N. J., that the enclosed picture might be suitable for editorial treatment.

Eugene Journes, a healthy, happy youngster of two and a half years old, was playing on the curb.

Blocks away a young man with a bottle of hootch and a flivver started on his mad dash down the street. His car swayed from side to side. It all happened in a second. There on the pavement was little Eugene. A short time later he was in the Middlesex General Hospital. Since that tragic day back in September he has been in a plaster cast up to his waist. He can't sit up. He may never walk again. At least, he will always be a cripple for life.

So this is the story of what a bottle of hootch did to this poor little youngster.

For weeks Eugene had nothing but a rubber dog and a musical toy with which to play. Some college men—members of the Delta Upsilon Chapter of Rutgers College—heard about the lad, and they decided to play daddy to the youngster. They visit him regularly, and every now and then bring him a present. You would expect a club of girls to do this, but when a bunch of regular fellows does it, it makes you feel mighty good.

Cordially yours,

CARL H. GETZ.

Congratulations to the young men of Rutgers College. If their conduct be girlish, would that there were more such "girlish boys."

The whole story is in this picture and in the brief letter that comes with it. The innocent suffer for the guilty. What is the remedy?

Nothing but TIME and EDUCATION. We have improved in ten thousand years a great deal. Ten thousand years ago a stranger would have caught this child and eaten it, unless prevented by its father or mother.

That does not happen any longer. But when whiskey sends a man back to the savage state, he recklessly kills such a child, and sometimes half a dozen. And his excuse afterwards is, "I didn't know."

Even whiskey and men's brutality will be overcome in time. Men are working hard at the task, but it will take centuries. Meanwhile the good that is in human beings, as shown by the young men that devote time and affection to this unfortunate child, help to make conditions better.

Girl Scouts' Influence

How the Habits of One Little Newton Child Were Changed for the Better

There is a little girl who lives in Newton. She is one of the youngest in her class, but she gets along fairly well with her lessons. She has never told any member of her family an untruth. She is good-natured. She runs errands without complaint, wakes up in the morning with a happy smile, takes her punishments calmly and submissively, and is generally a pretty good girl.

But—and there is a big BUT—she is a very disorderly little girl. She will throw her best coat on the floor and her best hat on the bottom of a chair. She will get out of her clothes at night and leave them on the floor. Her disorderliness worried her family.

One day recently her elder sister looked into her room and called her father, wonders to behold! Everything was picked up and in order and the little girl had carefully taken the counterpanes from both her own and her sister's bed, folded them with perfect precision and carefully laid them away.

Questioned as to the cause of this wonderful reform, she told her family that she had just joined the Girl Scouts, and that was one of the duties of the scouts. It was a very impressive beginning. So when we heard the story we inquired about some of the laws of the Girl Scouts, and we give them here:

1—A Girl Scout's Honor is to be Trusted.
2—A Girl Scout is Loyal.
3—A Girl Scout's Duty is to be Useful and to Help Others.
4—A Girl Scout is a Friend to All and a Sister to Every Other Girl Scout.
5—A Girl Scout is Courteous.
6—A Girl Scout is a Friend to Animals.
7—A Girl Scout Obeys Orders.
8—A Girl Scout is Cheerful.
9—A Girl Scout is Thrifty.
10—A Girl Scout is Clean in Thought, Word and Deed.

If membership in the Girl Scouts improves the habits of every little girl as it improved the habits of the little girl in Newton parents ought to have their little girls join the Girl Scouts.

...T GREAT ...N BORN SAME DAY

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

BOTH of them are "dead" now, these many years. Yet they are more "alive" than when they lived.

As I write these lines the air is vibrant in all the English-speaking world with the throbbing memories of two more born today, February 12. When these lines greet your eyes, their birthdays will have been noted and forgotten.

Abraham Lincoln and Charles Darwin, by striking coincidence, were born on the same day, February 12, 1809.

Two great emancipators, but one of body, the other of mind. Therefore, to be severally and jointly honored by all lovers of freedom.

Though Lincoln's emancipation of the negro was incidental to his being President and commander-in-chief, we are not to forget that he viewed, as a youth, when he saw the sale of a slave, "If ever I get a chance, I'll hit that hard."

As for Darwin, the aftermath of his life is in the healthful cogitation of his spirit and in the continuous rebirth of his scientific temper in the minds of untold millions.

For heaven's sake—pardon! for the sake of your intellectual freedom—stop connecting the memory of Darwin with the monkey.

The Darwin up with man and his chief glory, the ability to think, freely and without prejudice, the love of truth and the pursuit of truth.

Not truth already known, but endless truth to be known.

Lincoln and Darwin—make them your middle names.

Giant Ferryboat for Mississippi

CINCINNATI, March 6.—A ferryboat of the flatbottom type left here recently for St. Genevieve, Mo., where it will be placed in commission by the Missouri Eastern Railroad. It will be used in carrying freight cars across the Mississippi River. Two hundred tons of coal were carried by the boat when it left Cincinnati. The craft is 375 feet long and 88 feet wide, and is capable of carrying eighteen coal cars of fifty tons each. Even the heaviest locomotive can be carried.

THE VOICE OF NEW ENGLAND

American Language

Editor Boston American:

"I see by the papers," as Mr. Powers says, that Representative W. J. McCormick of Montana has introduced in the House of Representatives a bill to substitute the word "American" for "English" as the name of the official language of this country. The bill has been referred to the Committee on the Judiciary and ordered to be printed.

It is strange that a man from Montana and not from Massachusetts should lead the way in this momentous movement. And one wonders why it should be especially called the English language. The Welsh, Scotch, British and Irish use it fluently. It surely is a cosmopolitan tongue. The twenty-six letters which compose it is called the alphabet, deriving the name from the two first letters in Greek—alpha and beta.

The lack of acquaintance with the American language by Englishmen who visit America is very often portrayed by our versatile versifiers who perform on the vaudeville stage. Why can't it be the American language?

STANDISH J. REIDY.

Railroads and Trucks

Editor Boston American:

The legislative committee of this association, as well as that of the Motor Truck Club of Massachusetts, desire to express our appreciation for the help that you, by your editorial and news writing, have given us in defeating the attempt of the railroads in House Bill 1635 to obtain control of the motor truck transportation. Especially are we pleased with the editorial which you recently published, entitled "Railroads and the Trucks."

DAY BAKER,
Chairman Legislative Committee.

Offers Baby Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

Would you kindly send me J. J. D.'s address? I am sure I could help her out with some baby clothes, and maybe something more from time to time. Also would you send me the name and address of anybody confined to the house that would enjoy some good magazines on travel and adventure for boys. J. A.

ED. NOTE—J. J. D.'s address will be sent you.

For Quilt Making

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a few woolen pieces for quilt making, mostly new, that I would be glad to send anyone who needs such. MRS. G. D. C.

ED. NOTE—Your address will be sent to Mrs. G. D. C., who asked for patchwork pieces.

Thanks for Machine

Editor Helping Hand:

I wish to thank you for the lovely sewing machine which I received through your wonderful Helping Hand Column. Many thanks to you and Mrs. D. O. L. I wonder if there is any reader who has one or two partly worn tablecloths they have no more use for that they would like to give me in exchange for one or two crocheted yokes. MRS. W. J. S.

Clothes to Give

Editor Helping Hand:

If you will kindly put me in touch with Mrs. J. R. I have clothes that I would gladly send her for her five-weeks-old baby and also for a one and one-half-year-old baby. I also have a pair of rubbers and overshoes for a five or six-year-old child. You are doing a wonderful work for the poor. MRS. Z. M.

ED. NOTE—Other help has been promised for Mrs. J. R.; but your kind offer will be sent on to Mrs. H. C. C., who needs the clothes.

Carriage and High Chair

Editor Helping Hand:

I have for some needy person a baby carriage in good condition, also a high chair and a pair of women's low-cut shoes, size 6. MRS. H. G. P.

ED. NOTE—Fine! Mrs. M. C., who needs the carriage in order to encourage a sick baby boy to health with fresh air, and Mrs. J. A. S., who asked for a high chair, will be notified.

More to Offer

Editor Helping Hand:

I have sent the four boxes of clothing offered in my last letter to the addresses sent me, and now have to offer boy's clothing, size 7 to 9 years, needing mending; men's trousers and coats that would do for small boys when cut down; many stockings that need darning, and some shoes, sizes 3, 4 and 5, that would fit a young girl, and a pair of lady's high heel, gray top, black shoes, size 5½, and some slippers and low shoes, sizes 5 and 6, and other odds and ends of clothes. M. C.

Folly Ditch to Be Built Up

LONDON, March 6.—The clearance of slums in districts south of the Thames will shortly affect an area that is well known to lovers of Dickens.

Dockhead, or Jacob's Island, to use the Dickensian name, is that neighborhood in the Borough of Southwark which is graphically described in Chapter 50 of "Oliver Twist."

In Dickens' time the island was surrounded by Folly Ditch, and a stranger, he said, looking from one of the wooden bridges thrown across it at Mill Lane, would see the inhabitants of the houses on either side lowering from their back windows buckets and pails in which to haul up the water.

Folly Ditch was filled long ago, but many of the squalid buildings still remain. It was to one of these wretched houses that Bill Sikes escaped after murdering Nancy, and where he met his doom.

The appearance of the district has altered very little since those times. The wholesale is a mass of ugly bridges, factories and houses, and these are to make way for a housing scheme on up-to-date lines.

CHINA PREPARES THE WAY FOR FINAL EMANCIPATION

By Herbert Kaufman

HERE'S the story of China in a sentence. She discovered gunpowder and used it for firecrackers—invented printing and smothered its possibilities in an alphabet of forty thousand symbols.

The Mergenthaler Linotype Company has just constructed a forty character Chinese typesetter. Which brings education a thousand times nearer to four hundred million people.

The destiny of an empire will be recast in that machine.

The news reads like a trade note; history will write it down as an emancipation proclamation.

Wallowing in a Muddle of Laws

Now let America follow suit and build a legislative machine to simplify the legal muddle in which the country wallows deeper every day. We pass as many as fifteen thousand new laws in a single year.

The people of Massachusetts will have to read through a thousand-page book to find all the additional musts and can'ts by which they'll be regulated in 1923.

Justice had better untie her bandage and clean some of the clutter out of the courts or half of us will soon be in jail for violating laws of which we have never heard.

Only a few men in a million could hitherto hope for education in China.

Even the judges themselves are hard pressed to keep pace with the statutes in America.

Doings and Undoings of the Last Congress

The last Congress, however, averaged things considerably. Twenty thousand bills were introduced and six hundred passed.

The United States at last has a budget system. The administration leaders claim a billion-dollar saving through tax revision. The opposition challenges the figures.

The country's delight with the new tariff bill is indicated by the defeat of Mr. Fordney, its chief engineer.

Six million five hundred thousand dollars was appropriated to renovate old battleships. Their chances aren't worth a tinker's dam against a few airships with about $6,500 worth of bombs.

Co-operative marketing, the filled-milk ban, tighter packing house control, credits and other financial relief for stockmen and farmers are all agricultural bloc scores.

Now that sex has been eliminated at the polls, alien women are granted independent citizenship. The maternity and infancy act may also be credited to the influence of the female vote.

The women couldn't pass the constitutional amendment against child labor, but they'll have it from the next session or empty some seats in the Senate and House.

British debt funding went through and ship subsidy went down. We get our money from England and she'll get it back from ocean freights.

That's about what Washington did for you in four hundred and fifteen days.

British Mine Serfs in the 18th Century

You'll notice that no action was taken to prevent another freezeout next Winter. We must trust to luck and the doubtful authority of the Federal Fuel Committee for more coal and less strife.

The American Civil Liberties Union is busy in the Logan fields, where a gag has been put on free speech by the operators.

Mr. Mellon is reported to have interests in that district, and should exert his influence there. But probably won't.

If ever a flame of revolution sweeps the United States coal producers will be mainly responsible for the outbreak. The day of feudalism is past and they don't realize it. They are still of a kind with the British colliery proprietors, who didn't relinquish the privilege of mine serfs until almost two centuries after all other forms of serfdom were abolished.

The Man With a Million Employes

Henry Ford, who doesn't read history, but makes it, has increased pay and reduced misery prices at his Kentucky mines. Ford pays high and sells cheap. He makes much of his money out of the strikes he doesn't have.

More or less directly, a million men are now working for him. Less than twenty years ago he was working alone.

Ford has grown rich in a shorter period than any human that ever lived. Croesus, the plutocrat of antiquity, for all his fabled wealth, hadn't half as much money.

A wage earner only twenty years ago, if he keeps up his present clip, by the time he is as old as Rockefeller this man will have the industrial world under his hand.

Millionaires Frightened by Their Money

Rockefeller long ago began to fear his increasing millions and started to turn them back to the people. Like Carnegie and Frick, he realized the danger of leaving much to possibly irresponsible control.

The day will come when governments must set a limit upon individual riches. Unmeasured power can too quickly translate itself into miseducation and social mischief. An erratic billionaire is a calamity to be feared.

The Spanish commander who went mad at the Dardanelles last week and attempted to turn the guns of his cruiser on Constantinople, suggests the havoc that any one of a dozen persons could cause with a recklessly directed financial big bertha.

La Follette Goes Gunning for Standard Oil

Mr. Rockefeller, who probably hasn't bothered with his business in many a moon, will have a new set of worries if the recommendations of the La Follette Investigating Committee are carried out.

Standard Oil is reported back at its old game of fixing prices, controlling competition and using all the tricks in the kit of ruthless monopoly.

Immediate Federal control of the oil industry is urged as the only remedy against a course of profiteering that defies every law from the German act to that of supply and demand.

Industrial big berthas are also dangerous things to have around.
